Parliament. House of Commons. Education Committee,2013 The Government s plans for replacing GCSEs with new English Baccalaureate Certificates in some subjects is trying to do too much too fast Introducing several fundamental changes at the same time and to a tight timetable will jeopardise the quality of the reforms and may threaten the stability of the wider exam

system GCSEs need significant improvements in order to restore public confidence in the exam system but the Government still needs to make the case that the GCSE brand is so discredited that it is beyond repair MPs are also concerned about the impact of the changes on subjects outside the English Baccalaureate where students will be taking GCSEs for some time to come according to the Government's plans The report also questions how well the Government's proposals will serve lower attaining pupils who are often the most disadvantaged There is no evidence that the proposed changes will help to tackle under achievement or narrow the attainment gap between the richest and poorest students any more effectively than GCSEs The Government is also called upon to re think its plans for a Statement of Achievement specifically for lower attaining pupils MPs agree that changes are needed to the way in which exams are run but they raise serious concerns about franchising subjects to exam boards The report is critical of the Government's decision to abolish some GCSEs before publishing the outcomes of the National Curriculum Review and its proposed changes to the school accountability system MPs also note the wide ranging stakeholder opposition to many of the Government's proposals

Educating Tomorrow's Engineers Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Science and Technology Committee,2013-02-08 In the UK we teach young people to become computer users and consumers rather than programmers and software engineers This is creating a chronic skills gap in ICT We need around 82 000 engineers and technicians just to deal with retirements up to 2016 and 830 000 SET professionals by 2020 On the plus side the Government s proposal to include computer science as a fourth science option to count towards the EBac is welcomed The Committee also welcomes the EBac s focus on attainment of mathematics and science GCSEs but is concerned that subjects such as Design and Technology D T might be marginalised A Technical Baccalaureate TechBac is being designed but if it is to be a success schools should be incentivised to focus on the TechBac by making it equivalent to the EBac Reforms to vocational education following the Wolf Review meant that Level 2 of the Engineering Diploma a qualification highly regarded would count as equivalent to one GCSE despite requiring curriculum time and effort equivalent to several GCSEs The Engineering Diploma however is currently being redesigned as four separate qualifications The Committee also expressed concerns over the Department for Education s DfE lack of clarity on its research budget and use of evidence in decision making The DfE needs to place greater focus on gathering evidence before changes to qualifications are made and must leave sufficient time for evidence to be gathered on the effectiveness of policies before introducing further change The possibility of gathering evidence from randomised controlled trials RCTs should be seriously considered
