Plaited Arts from the Borneo Rainforest Bernard Sellato, 2012

One of the richest basketry traditions in the world the plaited objects produced in Borneo are created from plant materials gathered in the rainforest and worked by hand using techniques passed from generation to generation Unrivaled in their combination of beauty form and function they provide a unique window on the way of life of Borneo s inhabitants Plaited Arts from the Borneo Rainforest recognizes this plaiting tradition as the primary creative expression of the peoples of Borneo producing the most ingenious and aesthetically appealing material goods found on the island Using a contextual and interdisciplinary approach that connects botanical and technical features with economic social and ritual elements the book explores how people in Borneo rely on plaited articles whether for daily use or in the ritual sphere The sophisticated sense of design rich iconography and complex social and ceremonial efficacy of these objects are unsurpassed Elaborately patterned mats from the Ngaju people of southern Borneo for example portray the cosmos and are the most prominent decorative features of the Ngaju ceremonial cycle The sun hats of the Kenyah using a unique resist dye technique display patterns that were once taboo to all but the nobility The exquisite plaited designs of Iban seed baskets stained red with the prized dragon s blood pigment show the importance of the planting ritual for the vital and sacred rice crop The contributors to this volume are among the world s leading authorities of the arts of Borneo These twenty scholars and artisans are from ten different nations including Indonesia and Malaysia and from Borneo itself Sarawak Sabah and Kalimantan Their original work is supplemented by a selection of texts written by three pioneer authors that describe Borneo basketry before the Second World War The volume is divided into twelve parts that cover the complex role of basketry in Borneo societies the ethnobotanical and technical aspects of basketry the distribution of plaited arts by region the past and current market for Borneo s plaited arts and style and identity The abundantly illustrated Appendix surveys the relation between the tropical environment and the material culture Illustrated with more than 1 250 color photographs newly commissioned maps rare historical photographs and detailed line drawings Plaited Arts from the Borneo Rainforest is an essential addition to the libraries of universities collectors and scholars alike Publication of this book is supported by Total E P Indonesie as part of its Corporate Social Responsibility program for preserving Indonesian cultural heritage

The Rainforest Survivors Paul

Raffaele, 2018-11-13 Even in our hyper connected world there are tribes scattered across the far reaches of the globe who still live much the same way that their ancestors did thousands of years ago Having had minimal contact with the outside world these peoples currently live in harmony and unison with the environment around them But as technology grows and the human population expands the way of life of these tribes becomes increasingly threatened with every passing day In The Rainforest Survivors veteran overseas reporter Paul Raffaele recounts his time spent with three unique jungle tribes the peace loving Congo Pygmies New Guinea s tree dwelling Korowai cannibals and the Amazon s ferocious Korubo Over months spent living in these three communities Raffaele experienced firsthand wisdom and mysterious rites forged over many millennia Resonating with high adventure and remarkable characters The Rainforest Survivors details the daily lives of these relatively unknown peoples and provides key political and environmental context showing how outside forces are closing in on them and threatening to change forever their ways of life Enthralling and unforgettable this compelling book is the important portrait of indigenous peoples living the way they have for centuries Michigan Child Care Matters ,2005
