Indigenous Peoples and the private sector Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2025-01-31 This study presents the systematization of relationships deemed successful between Indigenous Peoples and private sector organizations in Latin America The intention of this study is to foster the incorporation of new dimensions that strengthen the impact of Indigenous Peoples in the transformation of their relationship with private entities making them more symmetrical and transparent for the benefit of society as a whole Twelve experiences were selected from eight Latin American countries corresponding to diverse productive sectors such as metallic and non metallic mining food tourism gastronomy energy and hydrocarbons In these experiences Indigenous Peoples are predominantly negotiators of agreements but in some cases they also participate as trading partners Furthermore this report includes cases in which the state has various levels of participation and influence in achieving agreements or agreements The study shows that although mutually beneficial relationships between companies and communities are not the norm they can be established Even so positive relationships usually emerge from long processes from the development of trust on both sides and with great contribution from international agreements on the matter Additionally the document recommends that companies consider local Indigenous communities as partners rather than beneficiaries and align their mission with greater knowledge and understanding of Indigenous Peoples States are recommended to ensure compliance with international regulations and strengthen their capacity in this regard The recommendation for Indigenous Peoples is to include among their assets the impact and interaction with the non Indigenous world and finally it is recommended that international organizations move towards the binding nature of international agreements on the matter among other recommendations

History of Soymilk and Other Non-Dairy Milks (1226-2013) William Shurtleff, Akiko Aoyagi, 2013-08-29 The New Consumer Psychology Sang Min (Leo) Whang, 2015-10-23 The term consumption is generally thought of as process by which individuals purchase goods and services The New Consumer Psychology attempts to explain consumption as a social behavior that satisfies individual values and desires In modern society individual needs are no longer determined solely by age or gender but by the life values and desires that one pursues This book uncovers people s subjective experiences of consumption in the capitalist society with interesting inside stories ranging from politics to designer handbags The book also provides valuable consumer insights into business and individuals by going beyond the limitations of population statistics and demonstrates Q methodology is used to analyse consumers subjective responses This book is an interesting take on how we should shift our focus from products to people and explains why identification and interpretations of different consumer groups are important in smart targeting Its content will definitely inspire marketing strategies and market effectiveness
