Aristotle Jaakko Hintikka,2006-04-11 Aristotle thought of his logic and methodology as applications of the Socratic questioning method In particular logic was originally a study of answers necessitated by earlier answers For Aristotle thought experiments were real experiments in the sense that by realizing forms in one s mind one can read off their properties and interrelations Treating forms as independent entities knowable one by one committed Aristotle to his mode of syllogistic explanation He did not think of existence predication and identity as separate senses of estin Aristotle thus serves as an example of a thinker who did not rely on the distinction between the allegedly different Fregean senses thereby shedding new light on our own conceptual presuppositions This collection comprises several striking interpretations that Jaakko Hintikka has put forward over the years constituting a challenge not only to Aristotelian scholars and historians of ideas but to everyone interested in logic epistemology or metaphysics and in their history Learning and Doing Policy

Analysis in Education: Examining Diverse Approaches to Increasing Educational Access Maria Teresa Tatto,Justin Bruner,Fida Hussain Chang,Corvell George Cramfield,Tara Miyoko Kintz,Nai-Cheng Kuo,Sandra Kurtti Pylvainen,Andleeb Sharif,2012-09-17 This book originated in a policy analysis class at Michigan State University taught during 2010 Using Professor Tatto s unique approach to teaching policy analysis the professor and students agreed to construct a class that represented a reflective and grounded experience in the policy analysis of a current and relevant issue with global ramifications we began exploring policies that were developed at the global level and that were implemented locally We

investigated the surge of globally developed standards and regulations in an effort to improve education Our goal was to learn cross nationally about policies that seek to reform curriculum and instruction under efficiency and global competitiveness arguments such as Education for All EFA and its USA cousin No Child Left Behind NCLB We knew our work would be bounded by the time available in a one semester class and by resource constraints We did exploratory inquiry supported by literature reviews reports on rigorous research studies and in one case an exploratory case study The policies we chose to explore such as EFA and NCLB offered us the opportunity to examine current reform tendencies that are intended to provide access to quality education for all children the preparation of teachers to support diverse populations the organization of schools to accommodate these children in response to vague policy mandates and power issues affecting the different constituencies and stakeholders The effects of these and other policies were difficult to track because research is scant and decisions are frequently made based on ideology or political persuasion Our purpose was to explore the critical issues that originated such policies and to search for documented evidence regarding policy implementation and effectiveness We investigated the factors that seemed to interfere with successful implementation from conceptual theoretical and methodological perspectives In this class we learned that there are not ready set frameworks for policy analysis but rather that these have to be constructed according to the issues that emerge as policies are conceptualized and implemented to fit local contexts and needs The book pays particular attention to the contexts of policy including the evolving conceptualization of global and local systems of governance knowledge regimes and policy spaces The book is designed for faculty and doctoral students in education who are interested in understanding diverse frameworks for policy analysis and for those in the general public who are interested in the policies we analyze here

Learning Pathways within the Multiplicative Conceptual Field Caroline Long, 2015 The transition from whole numbers to rational numbers and the associated mastery of the multiplicative conceptual field constitute an important development in lower secondary schooling This study draws primarily on the theory of conceptual fields as a framework that is mathematical and enables a cognitive perspective by identifying the concepts and theorems in action that lead to underlying concepts and theorems Application of the Rasch model configures the location of both item difficulty and learner proficiency on one scale Diagnostics explore the validity of the instrument for measurement The ordering of items enables the analysis of hierarchical conceptual strands and additional insights into the mastery of concepts by subsets of learners at particular levels The resulting matrix of interactions of learner proficiency and item complexity provides an overview of the concepts attained and not yet mastered These insights permit teacher interventions specific to each learner subset at a shared common current zone of proximal development along the scale Caroline Long has received her doctorate in Mathematics Education from the University of Cape Town in 2011 and is Senior Lecturer in the Faculty of Education at the University of Pretoria where she is responsible for teaching mathematics education courses and modules on assessment She is also Deputy Director at the Centre for Evaluation and Assessment Her
