Histories of Women's Work in Global Sport Georgia Cervin, Claire Nicolas, 2019-11-29 Sport has never been a man's world As this volume shows women have served key roles not only as athletes and spectators but as administrators workers decision makers and leaders in sporting organizations around the world Contributors excavate scarce archival material to uncover histories of women's work in sport from swimming teachers in nineteenth century England to national sports administrators in twentieth century Cote d'Ivoire and many places in between. Their work has been varied, holding roles as teachers, wives and secretaries in sporting contexts around the world, often with diplomatic functions including at the 1968 and 1992 Olympic Games. Finally, this collection shows how gender initiatives have developed in sporting institutions in Europe and international sport federations today. With a foreword by Gregory Quin and afterword by Anaïs Bohuon, this is a pioneering study into gender and women's work in global sport.

History of Humanity UNESCO, 2008-12-31 This is the seventh and final volume in this comprehensive guide to the history of world cultures throughout historical times. Making Sport History Pascal Delheye, 2014-05-23 The field of sport history is a relatively new research domain situated at the intersection of a number of disciplines and sub-disciplines. This interdisciplinarity has created interesting avenues for growth and fresh thinking but also inherent problems of coherence and identity. Making Sport History examines the development of an academic community around sport history, exploring the roots of the discipline, its current boundaries, borders and challenges, and looking ahead at future prospects. Written by a team of world-leading sport historians with commentaries from scholars working outside of the sport historical mainstream, the book considers key themes in the historiography of sport, including: The relationship between history, sport studies and physical education; Comparative analysis of the role of historians in the writing of sport history; Modern and post-modern approaches to sport history; Race, gender and the sport historical establishment; The role of scholarly organisations, conferences and journals in discipline building; Presenting new perspectives on what constitutes sport history and its core methodologies. The book helps explain why historians have become interested in sport, why they've chosen the topics they have, and how their work has influenced the wider world of history and been influenced by it. Making Sport History is essential reading for any advanced student, scholar or researcher with an interest in sport history, historiography or the history and philosophy of the social sciences. Amateur Musical Societies and Sports Clubs in Provincial France, 1848-1914 Alan R. H. Baker, 2017-09-14 This book explores leisure-related voluntary associations in France during the nineteenth century as practical expressions of the Revolutionary concept of fraternity. Using a mass of unpublished sources in provincial and national archives, it analyses the history, geography and cultural significance of amateur musical societies and sports clubs in eleven départements of France between 1848 and 1914. It demonstrates that although these voluntary associations drew upon and extended the traditional concept of cooperation and community and the Revolutionary concept of fraternity, they also incorporated the fundamental characteristics of competition and conflict. Although intended to produce social harmony in practice, they reflected the ideological hostilities and cultural tensions that permeated French society in the nineteenth century. Sport and International Politics Pierre Arnaud, Professor Jim Riordan, 2013-07-04 Examines the shaping of sports by both the fascist and communist institutions of Europe during the interwar period. It shows how sports were used as an instrument of propaganda and psychological pressure by major political and sporting nations. Histoires de sport Magdalena, 2024-04-17
