Sample Book Insights

- 1 Attraction is one of the primal emotions that has helped humanity survive and reproduce It is triggered in our bodies in the same way as other primal emotions such as hunger fatigue and fear We feel it in specific circumstances and we are powerless to convince ourselves not to feel it
- 2 The two major forces that shape males and females differently are nature and nurture Nature is the obvious biological difference between the sexes and nurture is the more elusive difference in socialization that starts to affect us from the moment we leave the womb
- 3 The words beautiful and attractive can only be used as synonyms when discussing the physical traits that show suitability for motherhood They are not universal synonyms and cannot be used interchangeably when discussing the attractiveness of males
- 4 The way attraction works is different between males and females Males are attracted to traits in females that females do not care about and females are attracted to traits in males that males don't care about

Development Naivety and Emergent Insecurities in a Monopolised World Munyaradzi Mawere, 2018-09-17 It is common knowledge that development without security is like a runaway horse Yet development in Africa has been plagued by insecurities since the extractive periods of slave trade and colonialism In spite of political independence and the euphoria of sovereignty as states Africa has failed to address insecurity which continues to loom large and to threaten aspirations towards truly inclusive and sustainable development A consequence has been Africa's development naivety vis vis the monopolisation of development by the predatory elite actors of the global North and their local facilitators To salvage the continent from such predation and the insecurities engendered requires novel and innovative imagination and praxis This book draws from both the haunted landscapes and bitter memories of past exploitations and from the feeding of the insatiable North with African resources and humanity It brings together essays by a concerned generation of scholars driven by the urgent need for radical decolonisation of African development and its legacies of insecurities It is handy to students and practitioners in economics policy studies political science development studies global and African studies

Dress, Distress and Desire J. Batchelor,2005-05-11 Dress Distress and Desire explores representations of sartorial experience in eighteenth century literature Batchelor s study brings together for the first time canonical and non canonical texts including novels conduct books and women s magazines to investigate the pressures that the growth of the fashion market placed on conceptions of female virtue and propriety It shows how dress dispelled the sentimental myth that the body acted as a moral index and enabled the women reader to resist some of sentimental literature s more prescriptive advice

Disease and Crime Robert Peckham,2013-12-04 Disease and crime are increasingly conflated in the contemporary world News reports proclaim epidemics of crime while politicians denounce terrorism as a lethal pathological threat Recent years have even witnessed the development of a new subfield epidemiological criminology which merges public health with criminal justice to provide analytical tools for criminal justice practitioners and health care professionals Little attention however has been paid to the historical contexts of these disease and crime equations or to the historical continuities and discontinuities between contemporary invocations of crime as disease and the emergence of criminology epidemiology and public health in the second half of the nineteenth century When how and why did this pathologization of crime and criminalization of disease come about This volume addresses these critical questions exploring the discursive construction of crime and disease across a range of geographical and historical settings

Korean Workers Hagen Koo,2018-09-05 Forty years of rapid industrialization have transformed millions of South Korean peasants and their sons and daughters into urban factory workers Hagen Koo explores the experiences of this first generation of industrial workers and describes its struggles to improve working conditions in the factory and to search for justice in society The working class in South Korea was born in a cultural and political environment extremely hostile to its development Koo says Korean workers forged their collective identity much more rapidly however than did their counterparts in other newly industrialized countries in East Asia This book investigates how South Korea s once docile and submissive workers reinvented themselves so quickly into a class with a distinct identity and consciousness Based on sources ranging from workers personal writings to union reports to in depth interviews this book is a penetrating analysis of the South Korean working class experience Koo reveals how culture and politics simultaneously suppressed and facilitated class formation in South Korea With chapters exploring the roles of women students and church organizations in the struggle the book reflects Koo s broader interest in the social and cultural dimensions of industrial transformation
