Evolutionary Theory: Fringe or Central to Psychological Science Danielle Sulikowski, 2016-08-08 The computational theory of mind which views the brain as an information processor that operates on cognitive representations is central to modern cognitive psychology and is the dominant perspective from which brain function is conceptualized and studied Evolutionary Psychology EP is the application of evolutionary theory to understanding human behaviour and cognition Unlike other core Psychology topic areas such as Personality Learning or Developmental Psychology however EP is not defined by the subset of psychological phenomena it seeks to describe and understand It is instead defined by a specific meta theoretical perspective from which it seeks to potentially explain all psychological phenomena The central question posed by this volume is whether this over arching nature provides an opportunity for evolutionary approaches to offer an alternative meta theoretical perspective to the information processing representational view of brain function and behavior

Towards an embodied science of intersubjectivity: Widening the scope of social understanding research Ezequiel Di Paolo, Hanne De Jaegher, 2015-06-16 An important amount of research effort in psychology and neuroscience over the past decades has focused on the problem of social cognition This problem is understood as how we figure out other minds relying only on indirect manifestations of other people s intentional states which are assumed to be hidden private and internal Research on this question has mostly investigated how individual cognitive mechanisms achieve this task A shift in the internalist assumptions regarding intentional states has expanded the research focus with hypotheses that explore the role of interactive phenomena and interpersonal histories and their implications for understanding individual cognitive processes This interactive expansion of the conceptual and methodological toolkit for investigating social cognition we now propose can be followed by an expansion into wider and deeply related research questions beyond but including that of social cognition narrowly construed Our social lives are populated by different kinds of cognitive and affective phenomena that are related to but not exhausted by the question of how we figure out other minds These phenomena include acting and perceiving together verbal and non verbal engagement experiences of dis connection management of relations in a group joint meaning making intimacy trust conflict negotiation asymmetric relations material mediation of social interaction collective action contextual engagement with socio cultural norms structures and roles etc These phenomena are often characterized by a strong participation by the cognitive agent in contrast with the spectatorial stance typical of social cognition research We use the broader notion of embodied intersubjectivity to refer to this wider set of phenomena This Research Topic aims to investigate relations between these different issues to help lay strong foundations for a science of intersubjectivity the social mind writ large To contribute to this goal we encouraged contributions in psychology neuroscience psychopathology philosophy and cognitive science that address this wider scope of intersubjectivity by extending the range of explanatory factors from purely individual to interactive from observational to participatory
