The SRK represents the smaller size of the extensive range manufactured by Mitsubishi Heavy Industries.

A typical system consists of an indoor unit mounted at high level on a wall, connected by two small copper pipes to a weatherproof outdoor unit, which can stand on the ground, on wall brackets, or on a flat roof or balcony.

The indoor unit comes with a hand held controller, which is used to switch the unit on/off and to adjust the temperature and fan speed.

The systems will provide cooling or heating, depending on the room condition and the selected temperature. During the cooling operation, the units will also reduce the humidity by extracting moisture from the room air, helping to provide comfortable conditions.
