

Activities for Encuentros Maravillosos (Prentice Hall)

Chapter 1

Teacher Notes

Vocabulary Flashcards

I post these and have students print them. They write the translation on the back and cut them out to use for practice.

Vocabulary Matching

1. This activity is done in small groups of about 4 students. You will need one set for each group. It works well to copy each set on a different color of paper, so if the pieces get mixed up or end up on the floor, you can return them to the correct set easily.
2. Cut the words and definitions apart. Mix them up and give each group a set.
3. Students will match the words with the definitions. First group to finish wins.

Tea Party

1. Cut the sheets of paper into strips so that each strip has one verb phrase on it.
2. Distribute one strip of paper to each student.
3. Using the verb phrase on his paper, the first student will ask another student if he did that activity last summer. For example, "¿Tomaste un café en Starbucks?"
4. The second student answers, "Sí (or no), tomé un café en Starbucks." Then the second student asks the first student the question that he has.
5. Once both students have asked and answered their question, the students exchange strips of paper, and each has to find someone else to ask the new question.
6. Continue the activity for about 10 minutes, or until everyone has had a chance to ask and answer several different questions.

Proyecto

1. Give half the class a sheet of 11"x17" paper. Have them cut it in half lengthwise and give the other half to a classmate who doesn't have one.
2. The idea is to have a "folleto" that, when folded has a drawing of Jorge Luis Borges as a person of indeterminate age, and when you open it up, one of the drawings reveals Borges as his older self (the narrator of the story), and the other drawing reveals Borges as his younger self ("el otro"). Hint: the drawing works best if you lightly pencil in the face of a person on the front when the paper is folded. When you open it up, you can then see what needs to be completed on each of the inside faces to make Borges look like his older and younger selves.
3. In the middle square of the inside, I have the students explain the double theme of the story.
4. I also have them draw one or two symbols of each situation around the appropriate Borges drawing, or they could be symbols they have in common – a bench, a river, etc.

Story Guide

I have them fill this guide out after they have read the story to help them keep track of who's who.

Origami Verb Practice (PowerPoint)

1. Have students fold a sheet of binder paper lengthwise in half, then in half again to form four columns. Number each column on the first side 1, 2, 3, and 4. Number the columns on the
