End Of Year Tourism Memo For Grade 11:

Tourism and Social Change in Post-Socialist Zanzibar Akbar Keshodkar, 2013-10-22 Notions of ustaarabu a word expressing civilization and questions of identities in Zanzibar have historically been shaped by the development of Islam and association with littoral societies around the Indian Ocean The 1964 Revolution marked a break in that history and imposed new notions of African civilization and belonging in Zanzibar The revolutionary state subsequently introduced tourism and the market economy to maintain its hegemony over Zanzibar In light of these developments and with locals facing growing socio economic marginalization and political uncertainty Tourism and Social Change in Post Socialist Zanzibar Struggles for Identity Movement and Civilization examines how Zanzibaris are struggling to move through the local landscape in the post socialist era and articulate their ideas of belonging in Zanzibar This book further investigates how movements of Zanzibaris within the emerging and contending social discourses are reconstituting meanings for conceptualizing ustaarabu to define their roots in Zanzibar

Trauma and Repair Annie Stopford, 2020-08-26 Trauma and Repair Confronting segregation and violence in America is an interview based interdisciplinary exploration of complex trauma in low income communities and neighborhoods in Baltimore Maryland Oakland California New Orleans Louisiana and Elaine Arkansas Moving fluidly between the respondents life narratives and clinical and academic perspectives on trauma and inequality Stopford depicts multidimensional and intergenerational trauma including prolonged economic injustice and repeated exposure to community violence Written in an accessible and engaging style that draws on insights from sociology public health history legal studies and clinical psychoanalysis this original study is a vital addition to the literature on inequality and poverty in the United States

Thanatourism and Cinematic Representations of Risk Rodanthi Tzanelli, 2016-04-14 In today's world the need to eliminate natural and human made disasters has been at the forefront of national and international socio political agendas The management of risks such as terrorism labour strikes protests and environmental degradation has become pivotal for countries that depend on their economy's tourist sector Indeed there is fear that the end of tourism might be nigh due to inadequate institutional foresight Yet in designing relevant policies to tackle this arts such as that of filmmaking have yet to receive due consideration This book adopts an unorthodox approach to debates about the end of tourism Through twenty first century cinematic narratives of symbolically interconnected risks it considers how art envisages the future of humanity's well being These risks include migration as an infectious disease alien incursions as racialized labour mobilities cyborg rebellion as the fear of post colonial otherness and zombie anthropophagy as the replacement of rooted identities by nomadic lifestyles Such filmic scenarios articulate the futuristic survival of community as the triumph of the technological human over otherness and provide a means to debate societal risks that weave identity politics into unequal mobilities This book will appeal to researchers and students interested in mobilities theory tourism and travel theory film studies and aesthetics globalisation studies race labour and migration

The New York Times Index, 2007 Remaking the Rust

Belt Tracy Neumann, 2016-05-26 Cities in the North Atlantic coal and steel belt embodied industrial power in the early twentieth century but by the 1970s their economic and political might had been significantly diminished by newly industrializing regions in the Global South This was not simply a North American phenomenon the precipitous decline of mature steel centers like Pittsburgh Pennsylvania and Hamilton Ontario was a bellwether for similar cities around the world Contemporary narratives of the decline of basic industry on both sides of the Atlantic make the postindustrial transformation of old manufacturing centers seem inevitable the product of natural business cycles and neutral market forces In Remaking the Rust Belt Tracy Neumann tells a different story one in which local political and business elites drawing on a limited set of internationally circulating redevelopment models pursued postindustrial urban visions They hired the same consulting firms shared ideas about urban revitalization on study tours at conferences and in the pages of professional journals and began to plan cities oriented around services rather than manufacturing all well in advance of the economic malaise of the 1970s While postindustrialism remade cities it came with high costs In following this strategy public officials sacrificed the well being of large portions of their populations Remaking the Rust Belt recounts how local leaders throughout the Rust Belt created the jobs services leisure activities and cultural institutions that they believed would attract younger educated middle class professionals In the process they abandoned social democratic goals and widened and deepened economic inequality among urban residents
