

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM

Endocrine System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works on other systems within the body to do its "job". See below to learn just some of the ways that the endocrine system interacts with other organ systems.

Nervous System

Circulatory System

Endocrine System: FACTS

Endocrine System: PROBLEMS

Most of the time, the endocrine system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition that causes high blood glucose (sugar) levels. It is caused by the body being unable to either produce or use the hormone insulin. So, the glucose (sugar) gets stuck in the blood. Symptoms include increased thirst, weight gain, changes in vision, frequent weight changes, persistent sores, numbness or tingling in the hands.

Endocrine System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Endocrine System	Network of endocrine glands that make, store, and release hormones.
Hormones	Chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one cell to another.

Endocrine System: HORMONES

Hormones are chemical signals. Hormones are released into the bloodstream by endocrine glands. They travel through the bloodstream and bind to target cells, which then respond to the signal. Hormones can affect many different parts of the body.

Endocrine System: FIGHT-OR-FLIGHT

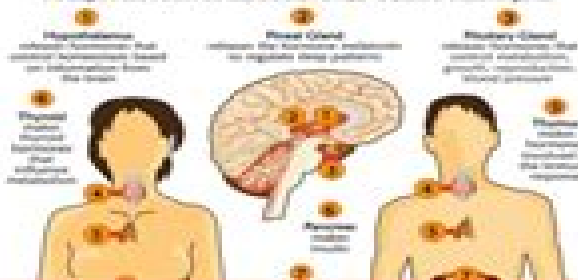

The fight-or-flight response is a reaction that occurs in the body when we are really frightened. The body's fight-or-flight response is the body's way of reacting to a dangerous situation. When we feel scared, our body's fight-or-flight response is triggered. This causes our heart to beat faster, our breathing to become deeper, and our muscles to become more alert. This helps us to react quickly to a dangerous situation.

When we are not frightened, our body's fight-or-flight response is turned off. This allows us to relax and go about our normal activities. However, if we are constantly frightened, our body's fight-or-flight response can become overactive. This can lead to health problems such as high blood pressure, heart disease, and anxiety.

Endocrine System: GLANDS

A gland is a structure that produces and releases substances that perform a specific function in the body. There are many different types of glands in the body. Some glands are endocrine glands, which release hormones into the bloodstream. Other glands are exocrine glands, which release substances into the body through a duct. Endocrine glands include the hypothalamus, pituitary gland, thyroid gland, parathyroid glands, adrenal glands, and the pancreas.

Endocrine System: FEEDBACK LOOPS

Endocrine systems are regulated by complex feedback loops. These feedback loops help the body maintain a stable internal environment. When a hormone level is too high or too low, the body's feedback loop will trigger a response to bring the level back to normal. This response can be either a negative feedback loop, which reduces the hormone level, or a positive feedback loop, which increases the hormone level.

One example of a negative feedback loop is the regulation of blood glucose levels. When blood glucose levels are too high, the pancreas releases insulin, which helps to lower the glucose levels. When blood glucose levels are too low, the pancreas releases glucagon, which helps to raise the glucose levels.

Another example of a positive feedback loop is the regulation of childbirth. During childbirth, the release of oxytocin causes the uterus to contract, which in turn causes more oxytocin to be released, leading to further contractions until the baby is born.
