Altmetrics for Information Professionals Kim Johan Holmberg, 2015-09-03 The goal of any research assessment is to evaluate the value or quality of the research in comparison to other research As quality is highly subjective and difficult to measure citations are used as a proxy Citations are an important part of scholarly communication and a significant component of research evaluation with the assumption being that highly cited work has influenced the work of many other researchers and hence it is more valuable Recently we have seen new online data sources being researched for this purpose and disruptive ideas with the power to change research assessment and perhaps even science as a whole have been born Altmetrics is the new research area that investigates the potential of these new data source as indicators of the impact that research has made on the scientific community and beyond and thus possibly also as indicators of the societal impact of research This book will present some of these new data sources findings from earlier altmetrics research and the disruptive ideas that may radically change scholarly communication Presents some of the key ideas and innovations in earlier research that have been driving the evolution from bibliometrics to webometrics and with the advent of social media to altmetrics Discusses the shortcomings and pitfalls of bibliometrics in research evaluation and the potential of altmetrics to overcome and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility Un-Habitat,2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world s leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter Enhancing Urban Safety and Security Planning Sustainable Cities and Cities and Climate Change

Neoliberal Urban Policy and the Transformation of the City A. MacLaren, S. Kelly, Andrew MacLaren, 2014-08-12 This book reviews the character and impacts of actually existing neoliberalism in Ireland It examines the property development boom and its legacy the impacts of neoliberal urban policy in reshaping the city public resistance to the new urban policy and highlights salient points to be drawn from the Irish experience of neoliberalism Unrivaled Michael C. Beckley, 2018-09-15 No detailed description available for Unrivaled The Public Wealth of Cities Dag Detter, Stefan Folster, 2017-07-18 How to leverage existing resources to meet the current and future needs of cities Crumbling streets and bridges Poorly performing schools and inadequate social services These are common complaints in cities which too often struggle just to keep the lights on much less make the long term investments necessary for future generations It doesn't have to be this way This book by two internationally recognized experts in public finance describes a new way of restoring economic vitality and financial stability to cities using steps that already have been proven remarkably successful The key is unlocking social human and economic wealth that cities already own but is out of sight or hidden A focus on existing public wealth helps to shift attention and resources from short term spending to longer term investments that can vastly raise the quality of life for many generations of urban residents A crucial first step is to understand a city's balance sheet too few cities comprehend how valuable a working tool this can be With this in hand taxpayers politicians and investors can better recognize the long term consequences of political decisions and make choices that mobilize real returns rather than rely on more taxes debt or austerity Another hidden asset is real estate Even poor cities own large swathes of poorly utilized land or they control underperforming utilities and other commercial assets Most cities could more than double their investments with smarter use of these commercial assets Managing the city's assets smartly through the authors proposed Urban Wealth Funds at arm's length from short term political influence will enable cities to ramp up much needed infrastructure investments

Chinese Migrants and Africa's Development Doctor Ben Lampert, Doctor May Tan-Mullins, Daphne Chang, Giles Mohan, 2014-06-12 China's recent stepping up of relations with Africa is one of the most significant developments on the African continent for decades For some it promises an end to Africa's dependent aid relationships as the Chinese bring expertise technology and a stronger business focus But for others it is no more than a new form of imperialism This book is the first to systematically study the motivations relationships and impact of this migration It focuses not just on the Chinese migrants but also on the perceptions of and linkages to their African hosts By studying this everyday interaction we get a much richer picture of whether this is South South cooperation as political leaders would have us believe or a more complex relationship that can both compromise and encourage African development Smart Development in Smart Communities Gilberto Antonelli, Giuseppe Cappiello, 2016-09-13 The concept of smart cities has become one of the most significant new lines of thinking to emerge in the social sciences in recent years both from the research and policy angles To date the focus in smart specialization has been on what regions as a whole can do to bring about innovation but it hasn't necessarily addressed the role cities play within the field This book aims to address that gap drawing together a team of leading contributors to illustrate this process with particular focus on cities Smart Development in Smart Communities discusses the cross fertilization between smart specialization and cities in fostering smart development and its interactions with the macro micro and meso economic framework from both a theoretical and applied perspective Specific topics covered by the book include human capital formation and utilization centralized decentralized industrial policies innovation policies collective learning and the role of public utilities in sustaining smart development processes This book tackles some of the most important questions that must be faced when investigating how structural change and innovation processes are shaping local and global economic development It will be of interest to academics and researchers in the area of Development Economics Urban Studies and Public Management The Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics Célestin Monga, Justin Yifu Lin, 2015-07-02 For a long time economic research on Africa was not seen as a profitable venture intellectually or professionally few researchers in top ranked institutions around the world chose to become experts in the field This was understandable the reputation of Africa centered economic research was not enhanced by the well known limitations of economic data across the continent Moreover development economics itself was not always fashionable and the broader discipline of economics has had its ups and downs and has been undergoing a major identity crisis because it failed to predict the Great Recession Times have changed many leading researchers including a few Nobel laureates have taken the subject of Africa and economics seriously enough to devote their expertise and creativity to it They have been amply rewarded the richness complexities and subtleties of African societies civilizations rationalities and ways of living have helped renew the humanities and the social sciences and economics in particular to the point that the continent has become the next major intellectual frontier to researchers from around the world In collecting some of the most authoritative statements about the science of economics and its concepts in the African context this handbook the first of two volumes opens up the diverse acuity of commentary on exciting topics and in the process challenges and stimulates the quest for knowledge Wide ranging in its scope themes language and approaches this volume explores examines and assesses economic thinking on Africa and Africa's contribution to the discipline The editors bring a set of powerful resources to this endeavor most notably a team of internationally renowned economists whose diverse viewpoints are complemented by the perspectives of philosophers political scientists and anthropologists Territorial Cohesion in Rural Europe Andrew K. Copus, Philomena de Lima, 2014-08-13 This book reflects on how the economies social characteristics ways of life and global relationships of rural areas of Europe have changed in recent years This reveals a need to refresh the concepts we use to understand measure and describe rural communities and their development potential This book argues that Europe has outgrown many of the stereotypes usually associated with it with substantial implications for European Rural Policy Rural structural change and its evolving geography are portrayed through regional typologies and the concept of the New Rural Economy Demographic change migration business networks and agricultural restructuring are each explored in greater detail Implications for equality and social exclusion and recent developments in the field of governance are also considered Despite being a subject of active debate interventions in the fields of rural and regional development have failed to adapt to changing realities and have become increasingly polarized This book argues that rural regional policy needs to evolve in order to address the current complex reality partially reformulating territorial or place based approaches and the New Rural Paradigm following a set of principles termed Rural Cohesion Policy

Second Rank Cities in Europe Roberto Camagni, Roberta Capello, 2017-10-02 Second rank cities are back on the academic scene capturing the interest of scholars with their unexpected recent performance with respect to first rank cities Looking at the data on average urban GDP growth in 139 European cities since 1996 the relatively strong position of large cities over 1.5 million inhabitants on national growth coincides with the periods of fastest expansion while at times of slowdown second rank cities prevail Especially in the recent period of economic downturn second rank cities have recorded annual GDP growth rates much less negative than those of capital cities and in some European countries like Austria and Germany all cities have outperformed their capitals In explaining this phenomenon linking urban dynamics to agglomeration theories seems the most interesting approach However merely to link agglomeration economies to urban size in order to interpret urban performance is neither convincing nor sufficient and it calls for additional investigation into how agglomeration economies work This volume claims that interpretation of the current dynamics in European urban systems especially in the western part of Europe would benefit from exploitation of the traditional concept of agglomeration economies However necessary for this purpose are more in depth considerations on the nature scope intensity and causes of agglomeration economies which do not relate their existence solely to urban size And this is where the main challenge for scholars lies in the interpretation of the missing link between agglomeration economies and urban dynamics This book was originally published as a special issue of European Planning Studies

Neoliberalizing Spaces in the Philippines Arnisson Andre Ortega, 2016-09-09 Amidst the recent global financial crisis and housing busts in various countries the Philippines booming housing industry has been heralded as Southeast Asia's hottest real estate hub and the saving grace of a supposedly resilient Philippine economy This growth has been fueled by demand from balikbayan returnee Overseas Filipinos and has facilitated the rise of gated suburban communities in Manila's sprawling peri urban fringe But as the Filipino dreams of successful balikbayans are built inside these new gated residential developments the lives of marginalized populations living in these spaces have been upended and thrown into turmoil as they face threats of expulsion Based on almost four years of research this book examines the tumultuous geographies of neoliberalization that link suburbanization transnational mobilities and accumulation by dispossession Through an accounting of real estate and new suburban landscapes it tells of a Filipino transnationalism that engenders a market based and privatized suburban political economy that reworks socio spatial relations and class dynamics In presenting the literal and discursive transformations of spaces in Manila s peri urban fringe the book details life inside new gated suburban communities and discusses the everyday geographies of privileged new property owners mainly comprised of balikbayan families and exposes the contradictions of gated suburban life from resistance to Home Owner Association rules to alienating feelings of loss It also reveals the darker side of the property boom by mapping the volatile spaces of the Philippines surplus populations comprised of the landless farmers informal settler residents and indigenous peoples To make way for gated communities and other profitable developments in the peri urban region marginalized residents are systematically dispossessed and displaced while concomitantly offered relocation to isolated socialized housing projects the last frontier for real estate accumulation These compelling accounts illustrate how the territorial embeddedness of neoliberalization in the Philippines entails the consolidation of capital by political economic elites and privatization of residential space for an idealized transnational property clientele More than ever as the Philippines is being reshaped by diaspora and accumulation by dispossession the contemporary moment is a critical time to reflect on what it truly means to be a nation
