University Rankings, Diversity, and the New Landscape of Higher Education, 2019-02-18 University rankings are a relatively new phenomenon in higher education Although quite an established practice in the U S it is only within the last decade that attempts to analyse university performance have spread to the rest of the world and that we also have seen new global rankings appear rankings attempting to measure university performance beyond national borders No wonder that this trend is accompanied by a growing interest in studying rankings throughout the world This book is written as part of the effort to better understand rankings and their effects on higher education A serious approach towards university rankings implies that rankings should be analysed properly including the methods used and the indicators chosen and investigate the objectives claimed If university rankings are considered as consumer information then everyone should have an interest in basing such guidance on valid and reliable data and methodology A serious analysis should also discuss the wider implications of rankings as an emerging phenomenon in higher education Consequently the contributions to this book investigate and analyse how different rankings work how they reach their conclusions and on what data and methodology they are built Furthermore it provides a critical reflection about the impact of rankings on higher education how and in what way rankings influence policy making the structure of the sector or the internal life of the sector

Multidimensional Ranking Frans A. van Vught, Frank Ziegele, 2012-02-21 During the last decades ranking has become one of the most controversial issues in higher education and research It is widely recognized now that although some of the current rankings can be severely criticized they seem to be here to stay In addition rankings appear to have a great impact on decision makers at all levels of higher education and research systems worldwide including in universities Rankings reflect a growing international competition among universities for talent and resources at the same time they reinforce competition by their very results Yet major concerns remain as to the rankings methodological underpinnings and to their various impacts This new book presents a comprehensive overview of the current state of the art of ranking in higher education and research and introduces a completely new approach called multidimensional ranking In part 1 rankings are discussed in the broader context of quality assurance and transparency in higher education and research In addition the many current ranking methodologies are analyzed and critized and their impacts are explored In part 2 a new approach to ranking is introduced based on the basic idea that higher education and research institutions have different profiles and missions and that the performances of these institutions should reflect these differences This multidimensional approach is operationalized in a new multidimensional and user driven ranking tool called U Multirank U Multirank is the outcome of a pilot project sponsored by the European Commission in which the new ranking instrument was designed and tested at a global scale

The Impact of Higher Education Ranking Systems on Universities Kevin Downing, Petrus Johannes Looek, Sarah Gravett, 2021-04-04 This book written by three generations of rankings academics with considerable experience from three very different regions of the globe lifts the lid on the real impact of higher education ranking systems HERS on universities and their stakeholders It critically analyses the criteria that make up the Big Three global ranking systems and using interviews with senior administrators academics and managers discusses their impact on universities from four very different continents Higher education continues to be dominated by a reputational hierarchy of institutions that sustains and is reinforced by HERS Despite all the opinions and arguments about the legitimacy of the rankings as a construct it seems experts agree that they are here to stay The question therefore seems to be less about whether or not universities should be compared and ranked but the manner in which this is undertaken Delivering a fresh perspective on global rankings this book summarizes the development of HERS and provides a critical evaluation of the effects of HERS on four different major regions South Africa the Arab region South East Asia and Australia It will appeal to any academic student university administrator or governing body interested in or affected by global higher education ranking systems

University Rankings William Yat Wai Lo, 2014-02-17 This book adopts a qualitative case study approach to provide the readers with a systematic delineation and interpretation of the implications of the university ranking phenomenon for Taiwan's higher education system It reviews the literature on different theories concerning the global transformation of higher education and presents basic information on higher education in Taiwan. The author develops a four-dimensional framework for the analysis of the ranking phenomenon in the island state. First, the technological-ecological dimension aims to look into how the rankings have impacted Taiwan's higher education based on empirical findings from five Taiwanese public universities. Next, the technological-geographical dimension examines how Taiwan can use rankings to promote its interests in global higher education. The two conceptual dimensions focus on the relationship between the rankings and power in higher education. They show how the phenomenon can be read and explained through theoretical lenses from ecological and geographical perspectives. From an ecological perspective, the empirical evidence suggests that the influence of rankings varies throughout the academic hierarchy in Taiwan. The theoretical analysis then illustrates the relationship between the ranking phenomenon and the power structure in academic hierarchy. Geographically, while the empirical analysis is based on data from Taiwan, the theoretical analysis offers essential insights that help readers to understand the changing global landscape of higher education and its implications in East Asia.

Global University Rankings and the Politics of Knowledge Michelle Stack, 2021-06-17. For many institutions, to ignore your university's ranking is to become invisible, a risky proposition in a competitive search for funding. But rankings tell us little if anything about the education scholarship or engagement with communities offered by a university. Drawing on a range of research and inquiry-based methods, Global University Rankings and the Politics of Knowledge exposes how universities became servants to the education industry and its impact. Conceptually unique in its scope, Global University Rankings and the Politics of Knowledge addresses the lack of empirical research behind university and journal ranking systems. Chapters from internationally recognized scholars in decolonial studies provide readers with robust frameworks to understand the intersections of coloniality and Indigeneity and how they play out in higher education. Contributions from diverse geographical and disciplinary contexts explore the political economy of rankings within the contexts of the Global North and South and examine alternatives to media-driven rankings. This book allows readers to consider the intersections of power and knowledge within the wider contexts of politics, culture, and the economy to explore how assumptions about gender, social class, sexuality, and race underpin the meanings attached to rankings and to imagine a future that confronts and challenges cognitive, environmental, and social injustice.

Is International Law International? Anthea Roberts, 2017-09-18. This book takes the reader on a sweeping tour of the international legal field to reveal some of the patterns of difference, dominance, and disruption that belie international law's claim to universality. Pulling back the curtain on the divisible college of international lawyers, Anthea Roberts shows how international lawyers in different states, regions, and geopolitical groupings are often subject to distinct incoming influences and outgoing spheres of influence in ways that reflect and reinforce differences in how they understand and approach international law. These divisions manifest themselves in contemporary controversies such as debates about Crimea and the South China Sea. Not all approaches to international law are created equal however Using case studies and visual representations the author demonstrates how actors and materials from some states and groups have come to dominate certain transnational flows and forums in ways that make them disproportionately influential in constructing the international This point holds true for Western actors materials and approaches in general and for Anglo American and sometimes French ones in particular However these patterns are set for disruption As the world moves past an era of Western dominance and toward greater multipolarity it is imperative for international lawyers to understand the perspectives and approaches of those coming from diverse backgrounds By taking readers on a comparative tour of different international law academies and textbooks the author encourages them to see the world through the eyes of others an essential skill in this fast changing world of shifting power dynamics and rising nationalism How To Survive Your Doctorate Matthiesen, Jane, Binder, Mario, 2009-09-01 The aim of this book is to present student perspectives via case studies on doing a Ph D and thus give potential or current Ph D candidates an insight into real life Most of the literature in the area focuses on academic models of learning and gives clinical advice on how to achieve the content of a Ph D However a doctoral degree requires many additional skills This is a light hearted approach which looks at the everyday interpersonal social and environmental issues associated with doing a PhD from application through to graduation Assembly West Point Association of Graduates (Organization), 1992 A Guide to Studying and Living in Britain Kris Rao, 2014-02-21 Every year more than 270 000 students from all around the world come to study in the UK and the number is growing by 10 per cent a year At present most students coming to the UK have to rely on information from their friends and brief leaflets and booklets supplied by universities This indispensable guide tells students all they need to know about Britain s higher education system the application process funding immigration controls health service accommodation study methods and employment opportunities as well as university life British customs and habits and lots of other information on day to day living in the UK The Research Impact Agenda Martyna Śliwa, Neil Kellard, 2021-11-11 This book contributes to the growing body of work addressing the processes and consequences of national governments audits of the performance of higher education institutions HEIs in different countries The book discusses one recent area of focus within these audits namely the measurement of universities societal and economic impact The Research Impact Agenda offers a problematisation of the research impact agenda especially in relation to the impact generated by academics based in schools of business and management It scrutinises the often unintended but nevertheless significant consequences of this agenda for individuals and higher education institutions such as the reproduction of existing inequalities in academia and the crowding out of other key activities of business schools It puts forward a range of recommendations for researchers policymakers university and business school leaders and individual academics The book will be of interest to a wide range of readers regardless of their formal position organisational affiliation or career stage who consider it important to reduce and remove inequalities and inequities within the HE sector and to make universities and business schools more inclusive The readers will benefit from the opportunity to engage in reflection aimed at transforming the current framing delivery and assessment of business and management research impact
