

KWAZULU-NATAL TOURISM

INTRODUCTION

The year 2019/2020 was one of our best performing years, where we saw millions of local and foreign visitors flock to our shores to explore the diverse range of activities and landscapes – like the sea, mountains and bush – which the province has to offer.

In the last two decades tourism has become an important economic sector for most African countries. In KwaZulu-Natal, there has been an increase in investments in product development and destination marketing, coupled with appropriate business-friendly socio-political reforms. Tourism's contribution to the economy of the province cannot be underestimated.

The exponential increase in domestic trips [CITATION Dom V 1033] to KwaZulu-Natal is testament to the hard work which has gone into promoting the province. In 2019, KwaZulu-Natal experienced a 112 percent increase compared to 2018 in domestic tourist trips which saw 6.2 million trips undertaken into and within the province. This places KwaZulu-Natal in one of the top two provinces for domestic tourism in the country. This is the most significant growth that KwaZulu-Natal has seen in the domestic front in the past seven years.

Strategically it means that tourism is able to fulfil its role as a catalyst for socio-economic change by employing more people, while the spin-offs have positive impacts on other industries such as the food and transport industry.

One of the major highlights ahead of the December holiday season in 2019 was the opening of Africa's longest promenade on the Durban beachfront. The addition to the existing promenade which stretches further south from uShaka Beach to the harbour entrance, makes it easier to navigate the beachfront for walkers and those who want to exercise. It also makes Durban CBD living more attractive for those who want to invest in residential property around the waterfront.

Another major event on the tourism calendar was the commencement of the building of a dedicated world-class passenger cruise terminal in Durban. The highly
