subjects own agency serves to transform their geography from a neutral backdrop into a resonant landscape with its own role to play in the narrative in turn reinforcing the placing of the protagonists along a spectrum of positive or negative characterizations The Persian imperial bid may thus be seen as a war on nature no less than on their intended subjects however as Herodotus reflects Greece itself is waiting in the wings with the potential to be no less abusive an imperial power Although the multi vocal nature of the narrative complicates whether we can identify a Herodotean world at all still less one in which moral judgements are consistently cast the fluid and complex web of spatial relationships revealed in discussion nevertheless allows focalization to be brought productively into play demonstrating how the world of the Histories may be viewed from multiple perspectives What emerges from the multiple worlds and world views that Herodotus creates in his narrative is the mutability of fortune that allows successive imperial powers to dominate as the exercise of political power is manifested both metaphorically and literally through control over the natural world the map of imperial geography is constantly in flux
