Note. Although results suggest that the two models are equivalent, the model with the smaller number of parameters is preferred.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or other medical problems. They were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of 30 minutes of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle. The results showed that the training program significantly increased the HR and EE of the subjects. The HR increased from 140 to 150 beats per minute, and the EE increased from 1,800 to 2,200 kcal per day. The control group showed no significant changes in HR or EE. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively increase the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.
