as the present or can be predicted with any certainty then it would seem to be not so difficult to decide what the next generation should best be equipped with. However if the future is presumed to be uncertain which is ultimately the case then the necessary knowledge and skills are not that easy to determine. On closer observation of society and educational practice the described idealized picture of education seems difficult to maintain. Especially institutionalized education is far from being free of external influences. The promise of a better future has been shattered because of a few severe global crises. Future in post modern societies has come to be understood instead as uncertain and contingent.

Higher Education - Reflections From the Field - Volume 4, 2023-11-02 COVID wrought havoc on the world's economic systems. Higher education did not escape the ravages brought on by the pandemic as institutions of higher education around the world faced major upheavals in their educational delivery systems. Some institutions were prepared for the required transition to online learning. Most were not. Whether prepared or not educators rose to the challenge. The innovativeness of educators met the challenges as digital learning replaced the face to face environment. In fact some of the distance models proved so engaging that many students no longer desire a return to the face to face model. As with all transitions some things were lost while others were gained. This book examines practice in the field as institutions struggled to face the worst global pandemic in the last century. The book is organized into four sections on Embracing Quality Assurance Educational Standards and Quality Assurance Evaluating Educational Access and Why Assessment. It presents various perspectives from educators around the world to illustrate the struggles and triumphs of those facing new challenges and implementing new ideas to empower the educational process. These discussions shed light on the impact of the pandemic and the future of higher education post COVID. Higher education has been forever changed and higher education as it once was may never return While many questions arise the achievements in meeting and overcoming the pandemic illustrate the creativity and innovativeness of educators around the world who inspired future generations of learners to reach new heights of accomplishment even in the face of the pandemic
