Music and the Functions of the Brain: Arousal, Emotions, and Pleasure Mark Reybrouck, Tuomas Eerola, Piotr Podlipniak, 2018-04-12 Music impinges upon the body and the brain As such it has significant inductive power which relies both on innate dispositions and acquired mechanisms and competencies The processes are partly autonomous and partly deliberate and interrelations between several levels of processing are becoming clearer with accumulating new evidence For instance recent developments in neuroimaging techniques have broadened the field by encompassing the study of cortical and subcortical processing of the music The domain of musical emotions is a typical example with a major focus on the pleasure that can be derived from listening to music Pleasure however is not the only emotion to be induced and the mechanisms behind its elicitation are far from understood There are also mechanisms related to arousal and activation that are both less differentiated and at the same time more complex than the assumed mechanisms that trigger basic emotions It is imperative therefore to investigate what pleasurable and mood modifying effects music can have on human beings in real time listening situations This e book is an attempt to answer these questions Revolving around the specificity of music experience in terms of perception emotional reactions and aesthetic assessment it presents new hypotheses theoretical claims as well as new empirical data which contribute to a better understanding of the functions of the brain as related to musical experience

Women who seek relief from symptoms often turn to complementary therapies including Chinese medicine. The latest in the Evidence-based Clinical Chinese Medicine series uses a whole evidence approach to summarise the management of menopausal symptoms with Chinese medicine. The first chapter describes the conventional medicine understanding of menopause including common signs and symptoms, diagnosis and treatment. The Chinese medicine conceptualisation of menopause both in contemporary and classical literature is reviewed and discussed. The evidence from clinical studies is reviewed using internationally accepted scientific methods. Systematic reviews describe the treatments used in clinical studies and analyse the effectiveness of Chinese herbal medicines, acupuncture and related therapies, other Chinese medicine therapies and combinations of Chinese medicine therapies. Experimental studies that describe the potential mechanisms of action of key herbs are summarised. The final chapter synthesises the current evidence and offers suggestions for contemporary clinical practice and future research.
