Identification and clinical evaluation of senescence-associated markers to distinguish melanocytic nevi from melanomas Kyriakos Orfanidis, 2019-12-19
Melanoma is a form of cancer that develops in melanocytes While it represents only 5% of skin malignancies it is the most aggressive and lethal Benign proliferation of these cells form the melanocytic nevi The definitive diagnosis of melanocytic nevi or melanoma lesions is histopathologic However it is estimated that a correct diagnosis is established by means of standard skin biopsy in only 83% of the melanocytic lesions of the remaining cases 8% and 9% are overinterpreted false positives and under interpreted false negatives respectively This underscores the importance of additional diagnostic tests Since cellular senescence is considered to be a tumor suppressive mechanism immuno histochemistry using senescence markers has been suggested for the evaluation of difficult melanocytic lesions however the routinely used senescence markers lack the ability to distinguish nevi from melanoma The general aim of this thesis is therefore to identify novel senescence markers that may aid in melanoma diagnosis In study I we established a cellular model with nevus mimicking characteristics consisting in primary melanocytes that become senescent Transcriptomic analysis allowed expanding the set of senescence associated markers that could distinguish nevi from melanoma and identifying tubulin 3 as a potential diagnostic marker Depletion of tubulin 3 and pretreatment with tubulin destabilizing drugs in melanocytes and melanoma cells induced a senescence like phenotype in vitro In particular reduced migration capacity and induction of cell cycle arrest in G2 M phase of the cell cycle was demonstrated In study II a potential inter cellular signaling pathway between melanoma cells and stromal fibroblasts that might facilitate melanoma invasion was investigated Ultraviolet UV radiation was shown both in melanoma cells and fibroblasts to promote the release and activation of TGF 1 and subsequent increase in expression of the serine protease FAP a protein that plays role in extracellular matrix degradation and therefore facilitates the invasion of melanoma cells. Such mechanism was not functional in senescent melanocytes. In study III it was shown that tubulin 3 immunostaining aids in the diagnosis of nevi and melanomas. The diagnostic criterium was the tubulin 3 gradient within the melanocytic nevi that was no longer apparent in melanoma. Different patterns of tubulin 3 immunostaining in melanoma were described. Dermoscopy immunohistochemistry associations were found. Specific dermoscopic features highlighted and the prognostic value of this tubulin 3 marker was examined. The progression rate in patients whose melanomas had areas with loss of tubulin 3 was 4 times higher than in patients without this feature although statistical significance could not be reached ($p = 0.06$). In conclusion transcriptomic analysis expanded the set of senescence associated markers that could distinguish nevi from melanoma and identified tubulin 3 as novel immunohistochemistry marker shown to have diagnostic and probably prognostic value. From a mechanistical point of view ultraviolet radiation was shown to promote not only the formation of melanoma but also its progression by increasing a cathepsin TGF- β 1/FAP pathway resulting in extracellular matrix degradation.

Malignt melanom är en form av cancer som utvecklas i melanocyter, de celler i huden som bildar pigmentet melanin. Men om malignt melanom endast utgör 5% av alla hudcancer är den den mest aggressiva och dödliga. Godartad ansamling av melanocyter bildar en leverfläck eller ett sk. nevus. Vid minsta misstanke om melanom opereras nevet bort och analyseras i mikroskop. Det uppskattas dock att en korrekt diagnos fastställs endast i 83% av de bortopererade lesionerna. Av de återstående fallen är 8% vertolkade och 9% undertolkade. Detta understryker vikten av att förbättra melanomdiagnostik.

Melanocyter i nevi anses i motsats till melanom ha avtagande förmåga att föröka sig efter ett visst antal celldelningar på grund av cellldrande. Påvisande av cellldrande markörer skulle därför kunna förbättra diagnostiken av svårbedömda lesioner. De idag rutinmässigt använda cellldrande markörerna saknar dock förmåga att skilja nevi från melanom. Det vergripande syftet med denna avhandling var därför att försöka identifiera nya cellldrande markörer för att förbättra melanomdiagnostiken.

I studie I etablerade vi en cellmodell med nevus efterliknande egenskaper bestående av melanocyter som leder. Med genuttrycksanalys studerades cellldrande markörer som kunde skilja nevi från melanom. Proteinet tubulin 3 identifierades som en potentiell diagnostisk markör. Minskning av tubulin 3 och förbehandling med tubulin destabiliserande läkemedel i melanocyter visade sig inducera ett tillstånd som liknar cellldrandet. I studie II undersöktes en signalväg mellan melanomceller och fibroblaster som kan underlätta melanomcellers förmåga att infiltrera och aktivt förstöra omgivande vävnad. Fibroblaster är en typ av bindvävsceller i huden som tillverkar mjönet som finns mellan cellernas extracellulära matrix. Ultraviolett UV-strålning visade sig både i melanomceller och fibroblaster förmedla signalvägen som resulterar i ökat proteinuttryck av FAP, ett protein som bidrar till nedbrytning av extracellulära matrix vilket kan underlätta infiltration av melanomceller. En sådan signalväg var inte funktionell i ldrande melanocyter. I studie III visade vi att proteinet tubulin 3 är en markör som underlättar diagnostik av nevi respektive melanom. Det diagnostiska kriteriet var tubulin 3 gradienten som kunde ses i nevi men som ej var synligt i melanom. Olika mönster av tubulin 3 analys i melanom beskrevs. Kliniska associationer hittades och visades av denna markör för att förutsäga sjukdomens frekvens hos melanompatienter vars melanom hade omringats av tubulin 3 hade fyra gånger högre progressionshastighet av sjukdomen jämfört med patienter utan detta märke. Sammanfattningsvis studerade vi cellkulturen som kunde skilja nevi från melanom och vi identifierade proteinet tubulin 3 som en markerare med diagnostiskt och farmakologiskt värde. Vi visade att ultraviolett strålning inte bara främjar melanombildning utan också dess progression genom att skapa en signalväg mellan melanomceller och fibroblaster som resulterar i extracellulär matrixnedbrytning.

Andricopulo, Leonardo L. G. Ferreira, 2019-02-05 Chemoinformatics is paramount to current drug discovery. Structure and ligand based drug design strategies have been used to uncover hidden patterns in large amounts of data and to disclose the molecular aspects underlying ligand-receptor interactions. This Research Topic aims to share with a broad audience the most recent trends in the use of chemoinformatics in drug design. To that end, experts in all areas of drug discovery have made their knowledge available through a series of articles that report state-of-the-art approaches. Readers are provided with outstanding contributions focusing on a wide variety of topics which will be of great value to those interested in the many different and exciting facets of drug design. Vitamin B12 Rima Obeid, 2017-07-12 Cobalamin (vitamin B12) was discovered in the first half of the 20th century. Vast amount of information on the role of the vitamins in human health and disease became available. Cobalamin science was however based on theoretical concepts that have been accepted without further proof of facts and hypotheses. Recently the breath-taking pace of development in research technologies has changed our understanding for the role of nutrients and the complex interaction between diet, environment and diseases. Conditions like aging, diet and drugs increase the risk of developing cobalamin deficiency probably because of diminished ability to liberate, absorb or distribute the food-derived vitamin. From a basic science point of view, understanding of the transport and function of the vitamin may pave the road for using this system for drug delivery. This book represents up-to-date literature on the discoveries and developments in the field of cobalamin. It includes multifaceted aspects of the vitamin in health and disease conditions. The book has been written by leading scientists who have significant contributions in this field and represents therefore a timely, unique encyclopaedia on cobalamin. Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046 Sovereignty Education and Defense Ministry (SEDM), 2020-02-06 This memorandum of law discusses and describes how government criminal identity theft occurs, how it is concealed and protected, how to prove it exists in a court of law, and remedies to fight it.
