Applications of Rasch Measurement in Learning Environments Research Robert F.

Cavanagh, Russell F. Waugh, 2011-11-12 Major advances in creating linear measures in education and the social sciences particularly in regard to Rasch measurement have occurred in the past 15 years along with major advances in computer power. These have been combined so that the Rasch Unidimensional Measurement Model RUMM and the WINSTEPS computer programs now do statistical calculations and produce graphical outputs with very fast switching times. These programs help researchers produce unidimensional linear scales from which valid inferences can be made by calculating person measures and item difficulties on the same linear scale with supporting evidence. These computer programs are now available to all Learning Environment researchers. This book includes 13 Learning Environment research papers using Rasch measurement applied at the forefront of education with an international flavour. The contents of the papers relate to 1 high stakes numeracy testing in Western Australia, 2 early English literacy in New South Wales, 3 the Indonesian Scholastic Aptitude Test, 4 validity in Learning Environment investigations, 5 factors influencing the take up of Physics in Singapore, 6 state wide authentic assessment for Years 11-12, 7 talented and gifted student perceptions of the learning environment, 8 disorganisation in the classroom, 9 psychological services in learning environments, 10 English teaching assistant roles in Hong Kong, 11 learning Japanese as a second language, 12 engagement in classroom learning, and 13 early cognitive development in children. This book would be of interest to all educators and educational administrators, Learning Environment researchers, and PhD students and should be available in all university libraries where the universities have education schools or faculties.

Russell Waugh Eight Essential Techniques for Teaching with Intention Ann

Lewin-Benham, 2015-06-14 In her latest book bestselling author Ann Lewin Benham describes eight techniques that foster intentional and reflective classroom practice. She presents over 70 novel exercises to help teachers learn to use body, face, hands, voice, eyes, and word choices to precisely convey meaning. Some exercises are for teachers to practice while others build intention and reflection in children. Dozens of scenarios from typical classroom situations contrast unintentional and intentional teaching behaviors. A self assessment enables teachers to measure how intentional and reflective they become as they learn to use the eight techniques. This lively and often humorous resource is a companion to Lewin Benham's Twelve Best Practices for Early Childhood Education which explains what to teach and why. This new book explains how to teach.

Educating for Humanity Neil Tucker, 2025-03-11 This book explores the international landscape of educational scholarship, policy, and practice. Tucker argues there is a fundamental aim for world education. It is to educate complete human beings in all their dimensions such that they become the best persons they can be and participate fully in the human story. Tucker asks: What is the world of education for? What is it that early childhood centers, schools, and local communities are meant to do for children and their learning? Representing a decade of research, the text examines the most common concepts of the purposes of education, human nature, and learning offered by scholars, international authorities, and pedagogies, nations, education organizations, neuroscience, early childhood educators, and individual schools. To educate for humanity Tucker provides a complete concept of holistic education of whole child and holistic learning for a whole world The book is an essential resource for those involved in the world of education teachers university administrators school authorities policy makers and educational organizations Parents and community members with a strong interest in the education of all children will also find much that is informative and challenging to think about
