The Oxford Handbook of the Ethiopian Economy Fantu

Cheru,Christopher Cramer,Arkebe Oqubay,2019-01-10 From a war torn and famine plagued country at the beginning of the 1990s Ethiopia is today emerging as one of the fastest growing economies in Africa Growth in Ethiopia has surpassed that of every other sub Saharan country over the past decade and is forecast by the International Monetary Fund to exceed 8 percent over the next two years The government has set its eyes on transforming the country into a middle income country by 2025 and into a leading manufacturing hub in Africa The Oxford Handbook of the Ethiopian Economy studies this country s unique model of development where the state plays a central role and where a successful industrialization drive has challenged the long held erroneous assumption that industrial policy will never work in poor African countries While much of the volume is focused on post 1991 economic development policy and strategy the analysis is set against the background of the long history of Ethiopia and more specifically on the Imperial period that ended in 1974 the socialist development experiment of the Derg regime between 1974 and 1991 and the policies and strategies of the current EPRDF government that assumed power in 1991 Including a range of contributions from both academic and professional standpoints this volume is a key reference work on the economy of Ethiopia

Investing in wet mills and washed coffee in Ethiopia: Benefits and constraints Tamru, Seneshaw, Minten, Bart, 2018-08-09 Local value addition in developing countries is often aimed at the upgrading of agricultural value chains since it is assumed that doing so will make farmers better off However transmission of the added value through the value chain and constraints to adoption of value adding activities by farmers are not well understood We look at this issue in the case of coffee in Ethiopia the country's most important export product and value addition in the coffee value chain through washing coffee which is done in wet mills Washed coffee is sold internationally with a significant premium compared to natural coffee and we find that this premium is largely transmitted to producers However while wet mills have become more widespread the share of washed coffee in Ethiopia's coffee exports is not increasing over time and even if coffee farmers have access to a wet mill they often do not sell all their coffee cherries to them Relying on a unique primary large scale dataset and a combination of qualitative and quantitative methods we examine the reasons for this puzzle The reasons seemingly are twofold First labor productivity in producing red cherries which wet mills require is lower than for natural coffee reducing incentives for adoption especially for those farmers with higher opportunity costs of labor Second only impatient often smaller farmers sell red cherries as more patient farmers use the storable dried coffee cherries as a rewarding savings instrument given the negative real deposit rates in formal savings institutions

Physiology of Fruit Crops Bruce Schaffer, Peter C. Andersen, 1994-08-19 This exciting handbook is devoted solely to the effects of environmental variables on the physiology of the world's major fruit and nut crops. Its cosmopolitan scope includes chapters on tropical and subtropical species written by scientists from several continents. The influence of environmental factors such as irradiance, temperature, water, and salinity on plant physiology and on vegetative and reproductive growth is comprehensively discussed for each crop. In addition to being a thorough textbook, the organization of this volume makes it an excellent reference tool. Each chapter focuses on a single crop or a group of genetically or horticulturally related crops and is appropriately divided into subsections that address individual environmental factors. Some chapters emphasize whole plant physiology and plant growth and development, while other chapters feature theoretical aspects of plant physiology. Several chapters provide botanical background discussions to enhance understanding of the crop's response to its environment.
