By investigating who is acting in and on the space of gong culture with what motivations interests intents or desires how they are doing so and how effectively this book arrives at new ways of thinking about heritagization in Vietnam G bor Vargyas Research Center for the Humanities Budapest Hidden Hunter-Gatherers of Indian Ocean. Culture and Development in Southeast Asia David B. Wangsgard, 2008 A World Between the Warps Michael C. Howard, 2008 This book is the first comprehensive study of Southeast Asia's supplementary warp and warp float patterned textiles. Such textiles have received relatively little attention in the past even though they are an important part of the textile legacy of the region linking peoples to a common Bronze Age past associated with the Dong Son culture of northern Vietnam and southeastern China. It discusses the weaving techniques and provides a survey of supplementary warp and warp float patterned textiles throughout Southeast Asia. 2014 New research on Laos Yves Goudineau, Michel Lorrillard, 2008 In recent years research on Laos has made great strides in several fields of human and social sciences. This collected volume with articles by Lao and Western scholars sixteen written in English eleven in French reveals an expanded vision of Laos a vision no longer confined by strict geographical political or cultural borders but resituated within the overarching movement of regional history. The book is divided into three major sections: the Making of History, Heritage, Issues and Social Dynamics that provide readers with both a broad brushstroke of history and the micro kinetics of modern day life in Lao PDR. The book contains numerous illustrations of archaeological excavation sites, documentary photos, architectural plans and dozens of maps that together with the text bring to light new perspectives, problematics and questions in the field of Lao studies.

Post-war Laos Vattana Pholsena, 2003-08-01 More than a quarter of a century after the end of the war in 1975 the Lao leadership is still in search for a compelling nationalist narration. Its politics of culture and representation appear to be caught between the rhetoric of preservation and the desire for modernity. Meanwhile originating from the periphery where ethnic minorities had hitherto been symbolically, politically and administratively confined, the participation of some of their members in the Indochina Wars 1945-75 exposed these individuals to socialization and politicization processes. This rigorously researched and cogently argued book is a fine grained analysis of substantial ethnographic material showing the politics of identity, the geographies of memory and the power of narratives of some members of ethnic minority groups who fought during the Vietnam War in the Lao People's Liberation Army and/or were educated within the revolutionary administration. No study has ever been conducted on the latter's views on the nationalist project of the late socialist era. Their own perceptions of their membership of the nation have been overlooked. Post War Laos is a set to be a landmark study and an original contribution which refines established theories of nationalism such as Anderson's imagined community by addressing a common weakness, namely their tendency to deny agency to individuals who in fact interpret their relationship to and place within the nation in a variety of ways that may change according to time and circumstance.
