Adapting to a Changing World National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Physics and Astronomy, Committee on Undergraduate Physics Education Research and Implementation, 2013-07-24 Adapting to a Changing World was commissioned by the National Science Foundation to examine the present status of undergraduate physics education including the state of physics education research and most importantly to develop a series of recommendations for improving physics education that draws from the knowledge we have about learning and effective teaching Our committee has endeavored to do so with great interest and more than a little passion The Committee on Undergraduate Physics Education Research and Implementation was established in 2010 by the Board on Physics and Astronomy of the National Research Council This report summarizes the committee's response to its statement of task which requires the committee to produce a report that identifies the goals and challenges facing undergraduate physics education and identifies how best practices for undergraduate physics education can be implemented

on a widespread and sustained basis assess the status of physics education research PER and discuss how PER can assist in accomplishing the goal of improving undergraduate physics education best practices and education policy Improving Quality in American Higher Education Richard Arum, Josipa Roksa, Amanda Cook, 2016-05-02 An ambitious comprehensive reimagining of 21st century higher education Improving Quality in American Higher Education outlines the fundamental concepts and competencies society demands from today's college graduates and provides a vision of the future for students, faculty, and administrators. Based on a national multidisciplinary effort to define and measure learning outcomes, the Measuring College Learning project, this book identifies essential concepts and competencies for six disciplines. These essential concepts and competencies represent efforts towards articulating a consensus among faculty in biology, business, communication, economics, history, and sociology disciplines that account for nearly 40 percent of undergraduate majors in the United States. Contributions from thought leaders in higher education, including Ira Katznelson, George Kuh, and Carol Geary Schneider, offer expert perspectives and persuasive arguments for the need for greater clarity, intentionality, and quality in U.S. higher education. College faculty are our best resource for improving the quality of undergraduate education. This book offers a path forward based on faculty perspectives nationwide. Clarify program structure and aims. Articulate high-quality learning goals. Rigorously measure student progress. Prioritize higher-order competencies and disciplinarily grounded conceptual understandings. A culmination of over two years of efforts by faculty and association leaders from six disciplines, this book distills the national conversation into a delineated set of fundamental ideas and practices and advocates for the development and use of rigorous assessment tools that are valued by faculty, students, and society. Improving Quality in American Higher Education brings faculty voices to the fore of the conversation and offers an insightful look at the state of higher education and a realistic strategy for better serving our students.

A Practitioner's Handbook for Institutional Effectiveness and Student Outcomes Assessment Implementation James Oliver Nichols, 1991

Handbook of Human and Social Conditions in Assessment Gavin T. L. Brown, Lois R. Harris, 2016-06-23 The Handbook of Human and Social Conditions in Assessment is the first book to explore assessment issues and opportunities occurring due to the real world of human cultural, historical, and societal influences upon assessment practices, policies, and statistical modeling. With chapters written by experts in the field, this book engages with numerous forms of assessment, from classroom-level formative assessment practices to national accountability and international comparative testing practices, all of which are significantly influenced by social and cultural conditions. A unique and timely contribution to the field of Educational Psychology, the Handbook of Human and Social Conditions in Assessment is written for researchers, educators, and policy makers interested in how social and human complexity affect assessment at all levels of learning. Organized into four sections, this volume examines assessment in relation to teachers, students, classroom conditions, and cultural factors. Each section is comprised of a series of chapters followed by a discussion chapter that synthesizes key ideas and offers directions for future research.

Taken together the chapters in this volume demonstrate that teachers test creators and policy makers must account for the human and social conditions that shape assessment if they are to implement successful assessment practices which accomplish their intended outcomes
