Gender And The Social Construction Of Illness:

Gender and the Social Construction of Illness Judith Lorber, Lisa Jean Moore, 2002-08-15 In this text the authors consider the interface between gender as a social institution on one hand and Western medicine as a social institution on the other and analyses issues of power and politics which pervade the study of both topics Gender and the Social

Construction of Illness Judith Lorber, Lisa Jean Moore, 2002-08-20 Judith Lorber and Lisa Jean Moore consider the interface between the social institutions of gender and Western medicine in this brief lively textbook They offer a distinct feminist viewpoint to analyze issues of power and politics concerning physical illness SIGNS labeled the first edition a rich and imaginative work In the extensively revised second edition of this successful text the authors add chapters on disability and genital surgeries They also update and expand their discussions of social epidemiology AIDS the health professions PMS menopause and feminist health care For a creative feminist oriented alternative to traditional texts on medical sociology medical anthropology and the history of medicine this is an ideal choice The Ethics of Gender-Specific Disease Mary

Ann Cutter, 2012-10-02 Our understanding of gender carries significant bioethical implications An errant account of gender specific disease can lead to overgeneralizations undergeneralizations and misdiagnoses It can also lead to problems in the structure of health care delivery the creation of policy and the development of clinical curricula In this volume Cutter argues that gender specific disease and related bioethical discourses are philosophically integrative Gender specific disease is integrative because the descriptive roles of gender disease and their relation are inextricably tied to their prescriptive roles within frames of reference An integrative account of gender specific disease carries ethical implications because our understanding of gender specific disease is evaluative and our evaluations of gender specific disease entail judgments concerning the praiseworthiness and blameworthiness of a clinical event Cutter supports a both and emphasis on context and integration in relation to gender specific disease and bioethical analyses While the text mainly focuses on gender specific diseases that affect women Cutter also includes examples involving men children and members of the LGBT community
