The authors examine the road ahead for connectivity for both humans and things considering the rapid changes that have shaken the industry. The book analyses major catalytic shifts that are shaping the communications world softwarization virtualization and cloud computing. It guides the reader through a maze of possible architectural choices driven by discriminating and sometimes conflicting business considerations. The new ICT capabilities lead us toward smarter environments and to an ecosystem where applications are backed up by shared networking facilities instead of networks that support their own applications. Growing user awareness is a key driver towards the softwarization process. Softwarization disrupts the current status quo for equipment development, networks operations and business. It changes radically the value chain and the involved stakeholders. The dilemma is between a slow burn traditional step by step approach and a bold transformation of the whole infrastructure and business models. This book is essential reading for those seeking to build user centric communication networks that support independent agile and smart applications. The book gives an insightful account of modern telecom networks pinpointing the radical transformations of the last 20 years. This is the perfect read for those who are interested in the grand challenges of networks and in the socio economic reasons why the telecom industry to embrace the Internet of Things and cyber physical systems.
