Sustainable cities Alexandra M. Zapata,Keith A. Weitz,2015-11-09 Cities often have limited financial resources for sustainability planning including sustainable solutions for municipal solid waste management In this paper we investigate municipal solid waste management strategies designed to meet two common environmental goals reducing greenhouse gas emissions and achieving zero waste by maximizing materials recovery We analyzed strategies using data collected from a range of low to high income cities around the world We inputted these data into RTI s Municipal Solid Waste Decision Support Tool and used the tool to identify the waste management strategies for each city that best met these two environmental goals We compared results among the cities and strategies and then highlighted the limitations of designing sustainable programs based on a single goal Strategies for minimizing greenhouse gas emissions and for maximizing materials recovery can have significantly different environmental impacts in the same city ranging from net savings under one strategy to net emissions under another We were able to explain many of these differences by considering the regional differences in waste composition in particular the amount of recyclable commodity materials and the energy and emissions savings associated with displacing conventional fuels in waste to energy processes for the strategies that included these processes WALNECK'S CLASSIC CYCLE TRADER, APRIL 2004 Causey Enterprises, LLC, Industrial Robotics
