The Role of Values in Careers Mark Pope, Lisa Y. Flores, Patrick J. Rottinghaus, 2014-05-01. Values are of critical importance in the practice of career counseling, as evidenced by the pervasive use of values surveys and values card sorts by career counselors, vocational and counseling psychologists, career development facilitators, career coaches, and other career development practitioners. The purpose of this book is to provide practitioners, faculty, and researchers in vocational psychology and career counseling with a foundational tool to guide their work. This book focuses on the critical role that values play in a person's career, addressing values from a broad array of perspectives, including cultural and international perspectives, to illuminate the place of values within vocational psychology and career development. The book will be directed primarily toward psychology and counselor education faculty who teach advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in vocational psychology, career development, career assessment, and career counseling. Although there is a range of readership, undergraduate and graduate students as well as professionals already in the field, the authors understand the differences in reading level and agree to write for all levels.

Student Development in College Nancy J. Evans, Deanna S. Forney, Florence M. Guido, Lori D. Patton, Kristen A. Renn, 2009-11-05. The second edition of Student Development in College offers higher education professionals a clear understanding of the developmental challenges facing today's college students. Thoroughly revised and updated, this edition includes new integrative theories of student development, expanded coverage of social identity theories, a targeted focus on higher education-related research, a current review of student development research and application, and reconceptualization of typology theories as a way to understand individual differences.

Praise for the Second Edition of STUDENT DEVELOPMENT IN COLLEGE

Student Development in College is a rich, comprehensive exploration of the major theoretical perspectives that inform development. The authors' attention to nuances and complexities results in a substantive history of theory development and a careful story about how various perspectives evolved, yielding contemporary theorizing. The book is a masterful blend of theoretical lenses and their use in designing developmentally appropriate practice for diverse populations of contemporary college students. It is an excellent resource for all educators who work on college campuses.

Marcia Baxter Magolda, Distinguished Professor, Educational Leadership, Miami University. This is an invaluable work for anyone seeking an introduction to college student development theories or those seeking to update their existing knowledge.

It offers a thorough and complex review of both the foundational theories and the newer often more culturally relevant theories and models Raechele L Pope program coordinator Higher Education Program University at Buffalo The original book was a tremendous contribution to the field of higher education and especially student affairs After more than ten years this revision is a timely and focused enhancement to the literature that nurtures quality professionals to think differently about topics relevant to our field Well done a second time around Gregory Roberts executive director ACPA College Student Educators International

Three Keys to Self-Understanding Pat Wyman, 2001 Self discovery can be an elusive process Some people never fully express their true personalities because of obstacles from the past Others float through life with a set of defense mechanisms that seem adequate until something happens to shake that pattern In her groundbreaking work Pat Wyman combines three psychological techniques to create a successful method of personal integration The foundation of the work is a comparative exploration of how the MBTI instrument the Enneagram and Inner Child Healing can assist in self discovery In the end it is a strikingly honest and poignant study of how a remarkable group of people dealt with tragedy and abuse and how they achieved healing through intense introspection and the use of these three modalities Courageous clients share their stories poems artwork and letters which are interwoven throughout the author's in depth explanation of how to guide clients through this process

Constructing Capacities Patrick Alan Danaher, 2013-02-14 Constructing Capacities Building Capabilities through Learning and Engagement explores several contemporary manifestations of individuals groups and communities participating in varying types of learning and thereby engaging effectively and productively with their contexts and environments in order to build and develop their multiple capacities These capacities are seen as crucial to overcoming particular kinds of challenges and to attaining specific types of aspirations that are valued highly by the respective individuals groups and communities Despite this common valuing of constructing capacities we still know relatively little about how capacities can be built and enhanced in ways that are equitable sustainable and transformative Much of the literature highlights contextually specific factors that facilitate capacity building for particular groups of participants at specific times and that are founded on demonstrated principles such as understanding and engaging with those participants respective aspirations circumstances and needs Yet what works to develop capabilities in one context might not succeed in another context even with the same participants generating momentum and achieving scale and sustainability are often challenges when seeking to build capacities For all these reasons it is both timely and useful to extend contemporary understandings of capacities and how they can be constructed effectively and sustainably The 14 chapters in this book take up this challenge by presenting theoretically framed and rigorously researched accounts of successful capacity building in diverse educational settings clustered around four foci conceptualising and contextualising capacities constructing students and teachers capacities constructing workers capacities constructing researchers capacities These accounts generate new and important understandings of what capacities are how they can be constructed and supported and how they enhance positive outcomes for individuals and communities as well as nationally and globally

Interpersonal Interactions and Language Learning Shin Yi Chew, Lee Luan Ng, 2021-03-12 This book takes as its starting point the assumption that interpersonal communication is a crucial aspect of successful language learning Following an examination of different communicative models the authors focus on traditional face to face F2F interactions before going on to compare these with the forms of computer mediated communication CMC enabled by recent developments in educational technology They also address the question of individual differences particularly learners preferred participation styles and explore how F2F and CMC formats might impact learners differently This book will be of interest to students and scholars of computer mediated communication CMC computer assisted language learning CALL technology enhanced language learning TELL language acquisition and language education more broadly Clinical Mental Health Counseling J.
