Middle School Essay Contest 2009:

Nightmare in Hostage Hills Christina Mask, 2017-11-20 Sadly Christina's journey and her children's experience of being collateral damage is not atypical. Kudos for her strength and bravery in putting her story out there as a cautionary tale for others. Dr. Susan Weitzman, author of Not to People like Us: Hidden Abuse in Upscale Marriages, says Christina Mask's Nightmare is constructed around fragments from a life in agony as one woman attempts to escape abuse, retain her sanity, and regain the custody of three children the family court and her husband have taken from her. It's all here: the daily records over months, then years; the diary entries; the self-blame; the excuses; the shame; the absurdist dialogues with family therapists; marginalia from readings or lectures or religious texts; letters, pleadings with judges and lawyers and evaluators; poems; letters to and from the children, real and imagined; the reports that put her claims of abuse in quotations and so so much more. These pieces are loosely joined by a narrative and an interior monologue that I sometimes found too much to bear. But then I realized I was scanning something akin to a Picasso painting whose underlying truth lay not in what was on the page, not the fragments, but in the hope that put them out here, no more evident than in the endlessly reasonable letters. Mask writes to intractable foes. Mask has cast her eye on what Yeats termed the broken, crumbling battlement of the self and lived to write it. As one director famously said about the sixty women and children crowded into her six-bedroom shelter: If they can manage this, they can manage anything. Christina's book gives us faith that she is right. Evan Stark, PhD, MSW, The writer is professor emeritus at Rutgers University and author of Coercive Control: How Men Entrap Women in Personal Life (Oxford, 2007).

Tuning into Mom Michal Clements, Teri Lucie Thompson, 2011-10-15 American mothers are household CFOs in charge of an estimated 2.45 trillion in direct spending. They are also an important influence on other family members' buying habits. Many organizations have identified moms as an important customer group, but the broad age-based definitions these companies work with mask an array of different consumer behaviors. Written by two leading marketers, this book provides a new approach to understanding the American Mom market, examining the effect of age of the eldest child on women's values and attitudes to food, exercise, education, health, technology, and fashion. The authors examine the mom's influence on or control of the purchasing habits of children of all ages, from infants and toddlers to young adults. In doing so, it brings focus to the frequently overlooked purchase influence of moms on teenagers. The authors combine large-scale quantitative research of more than 4,700 mothers with qualitative case studies from individual participants. The authors also draw on decades of real-world experience to combine their research with implementable examples of best practice. Highly recommended for practitioners in retailing and product development, this book will also be a valuable supplemental text for college courses in consumer behavior and marketing strategy.

International Advances in Writing Research Charles Bazerman, Chris Dean, 2012-09-09 The authors report research that considers writing in all levels of schooling, in science in the public sphere, and in the workplace, as well as the relationship among these various places of writing. of writing among them national cultures gender cultures schooling cultures scientific cultures and cultures of the workplace
