The Love of Romance 50 Books in One Collection is a breathtaking anthology that examines the profound and varied dimensions of romance through the ages. This collection artfully traverses a range of literary styles from the foundational dramas of Shakespeare to the penetrating social narratives of Austen and Woolf, illuminating how love and romantic ideals have been interpreted and reimagined across centuries. The anthology's thematic focus on the multifaceted nature of love is vividly captured through a diverse assortment of genres and narrative techniques, be it the gothic tensions of the Brontë sisters or the poignant realism of Tolstoy and Eliot. Standout pieces in this collection invite readers to explore the nuances of romantic aspirations and the societal forces at play. Bringing together monumental literary figures such as Dickens, Stendhal, Hawthorne, and Chopin, this anthology reflects a tapestry of cultural and historical influences that have shaped the romance genre. The authors included in this volume represent a confluence of Enlightenment, Romantic, Victorian, and Modernist impulses that contribute a kaleidoscopic view of romance. Their collective narratives echo a dialogue across time, bridging personal and historical contexts and offering insights into the shifting paradigms of love and desire within the human experience. The Love of Romance serves as a compelling gateway for readers to dive into fifty exemplary works that capture the depth and complexity of romantic literature. This anthology is not just an assemblage of stories but a narrative journey through time, inviting readers to immerse themselves in the rich dialogue these timeless works foster. Its scholarly and educational appeal makes the collection indispensable for those interested in the evolution of romance as a literary theme and its continued significance in understanding human relationships. Discover a world of romance brought vividly to life in this unparalleled collection.

Harriet Beecher Stowe Joan D. Hedrick, 1995-06-01 Up to this year I have always felt that I had no particular call to meddle with this subject. But I feel now that the time is come when even a woman or a child who can speak a word for freedom and humanity is bound to speak. Thus did Harriet Beecher Stowe announce her decision to begin work on what would become one of the most influential novels ever written. The subject she had hesitated to meddle with was slavery, and the novel of course was Uncle Tom's Cabin. Still debated today for its portrayal of African Americans and its unresolved place in the literary canon, Stowe's best-known work was first published in weekly installments from June 5, 1851, to April 1, 1852. It caused such a stir in both the North and South and even in Great Britain that when Stowe met President Lincoln in 1862, he is said to have greeted her with the words, "So you are the little woman who wrote the book that created this great war." In this landmark book, the first full-scale biography of Harriet Beecher Stowe in over fifty years, Joan D. Hedrick tells the absorbing story of this gifted, complex, and contradictory woman. Hedrick takes readers into the multilayered world of nineteenth-century morals and mores, exploring the influence of then-popular ideas of true womanhood on Stowe's upbringing as a member of the outspoken Beecher clan and her eventful life as a writer and shaper of public opinion who was also a mother of seven. It offers a lively record of the flourishing parlor societies that launched and sustained Stowe throughout the 44 years of her career and the harsh physical realities that governed so many women's lives. The epidemics, high infant mortality and often disastrous medical practices of the day are portrayed in moving detail against the backdrop of western expansion and the great social upheaval accompanying the abolitionist movement and the entry of women into public life. Here are Stowe's public triumphs both before and after the Civil War and the private tragedies that included the death of her adored eighteen-month-old son, the drowning of another son and the alcohol and morphine addictions of two of her other children. The daughter, sister and wife of prominent ministers, Stowe channeled her anguish and her ambition into a socially acceptable anger on behalf of others, transforming her private experience into powerful narratives that moved a nation. Magisterial in its breadth and rich in detail, this definitive portrait explores the full measure of Harriet Beecher Stowe's life and her contribution to American literature. Perceptive and engaging, it illuminates the career of a major writer during the transition of literature from an amateur pastime to a profession and offers a fascinating look at the pains, pleasures and accomplishments of women's lives in the last century.

The Encyclopedia of Best Films Jay Robert Nash, 2019-10-23. This all-inclusive A-Z encyclopedia by one of the world's foremost experts on cinema provides comprehensive annotations of the best films produced from 1914 on. The work offers more than 5,000 three to five star entries: three stars good, four stars excellent, five stars masterpiece, and yes, author Jay Robert Nash has viewed every single one of them as well as many more that did not make the cut. In addition to a precis, each film's entry also includes a listing of the cast as well as the key principles involved in production, from the director to the hair stylist. Especially unique to this book is a rating system that helps parents determine whether or not a film is appropriate for their children. Unlike the industry rating system, which can be influenced by studio lobbying, Nash objectively evaluates each film and confers upon it one of four recommendations for viewing: recommended, acceptable, cautionary, and unacceptable. Backmatter includes a list of top films by genre (i.e. animated, drama, sports, mystery, adventure, etc.) as well as an annotated name index listing all persons mentioned along with their dates of birth and death. Rounding out this essential volume for the film buff are over 500 still photos from the author's private collection.

Post-War British Fiction As 'Metaphysical Ethnography' Roula Ikononakis, 2008. The Second World War marked an ethical turn in British fiction. The author of this study demonstrates this by closely examining John Fowles's and Iris Murdoch's works as post-war meta-textual magical realist novels interested in ethics and the nature of contemporary reality. These ethical novels transcend mere morality to explore the essence of the Good. Through paradigms of human experience, they direct our attention towards the Other and impart moral principles based on acts of Goodness. The author assesses the moral intimations in Fowles's The Magus and Murdoch's The Sea, the Sea in the context of their philosophical writings, mainly The Aristos and Metaphysics as a Guide to Morals respectively. She shows that Fowles and Murdoch endeavour to instruct the reader morally through the accessible language of fiction
