Ethnoarchaeology In Action:

Ethnoarchaeology in Action Nicholas David, Carol Kramer, 2001-07-26 Ethnoarchaeology first developed as the study of ethnographic material culture from archaeological perspectives Over the past half century it has expanded its scope especially to cultural and social anthropology Both authors are leading practitioners and their theoretical perspective embraces both the processualism of the New Archaeology and the post processualism of the 1980s and 90s A case study approach enables a balanced global geographic and topical coverage including consideration of materials in French and German Three introductory chapters discuss the subject and its history survey the theory and discuss field methods and ethics Ten topical chapters consider formation processes subsistence the study of artefacts and style settlement systems site structure and architecture specialist craft production trade and exchange and mortuary practices and ideology Ethnoarchaeology in Action concludes with ethnoarchaeology's contributions actual and potential and with a look at its place within anthropology It is generously illustrated including many photographs of leading ethnoarchaeologists in action

Ethnoarchaeology in Action Nicholas David, Carol Kramer, 2001-07-26 Ethnoarchaeology in Action is the first and only comprehensive study of ethnoarchaeology the ethnographic study of living cultures from archaeological perspectives and is designed for senior undergraduates and above in archaeology and anthropology Its geographical coverage is global and the book includes relevant theory practical advice regarding fieldwork and complete topical coverage of the discipline Critical discussions of varied case studies make this a very readable book It is illustrated with numerous figures and photographs of many leading ethnoarchaeologists in action Ethnoarchaeology in Action Nicholas David, 2006 Ethnoarchaeology of Shuwa-Arab Settlements Augustin Holl, 2003-01-01 Ethnoarchaeology of Shuwa Arab Settlements demonstrates the imperative need for ethnoarchaeology to include a deep sense of the history of the specific social group under analysis for its findings to truly impact archaeological thinking Based on research from a long term archaeological and ethnoarchaeological project conducted in the northernmost part of Cameroon Augustin Holl's new work probes the ethnic survival of the Shuwa Arab descendants of generations of pastoralists who migrated from Arabia to the Chad basin The book robustly engages macro issues connected to processes of sedentarization ethnic interaction in a multi ethnic setting and relations of power and dominion On the micro level the work deciphers clues for the cultural survival and later prosperity of the Shuwa Arab hidden in the material record of their daily settlement life This book will be of great interest to students of African history African studies archaeology ethnoarchaeology and ethnic and cultural studies seeking to understand how to successfully integrate history into the interpretation of the archaeological record Archaeology: The Key Concepts Colin Renfrew, Paul Bahn, 2013-09-05 From two of the best known archaeological writers in the trade this outstanding resource provides a thorough survey of the key ideas in archaeology and how they impact on archaeological thinking and method Clearly written and easy to follow Archaeology The Key Concepts collates entries written specifically by field specialists and each entry offers a definition of the term its origins and development and all the major figures involved in the area The entries include thinking about landscape archaeology of cult and religion cultural evolution concepts of time urban societies the antiquity of humankind archaeology of gender feminist archaeology experimental archaeology multiregional evolution With guides to further reading extensive cross referencing and accessibly written for even beginner students this book is a superb guide for anyone studying teaching or with any interest in this fascinating subject

Contesting Ethnoarchaeologies Arkadiusz Marciniak, Nurcan Yalman, 2013-11-30 Contesting Ethnoarchaeologies provides a systematic overview of major non American traditions of ethnoarchaeology with a particular focus on Europe and Asia It explores all stages of their research agenda These ethnoarchaeologies were embedded in theoretical traditions of local archaeologies Moreover ethnoarchaeological studies carried out in these different settings targeted a wide range of different issues and addressed numerous questions of covering all sorts of different issues Consequently achieved results and data have been largely idiosyncratic and hardly compatible Hence this volume aims not only to conceptualize characteristics of these diverse ethnoarchaeologies but more importantly put them in a broader context of the development of archaeology in different parts of Europe and Asia The contributors to the volume express their own diverse views on the cognitive and interpretative value of ethnoarchaeology for studying prehistoric past based on particular cases of experience and research As such the volume is not only a valuable overview of numerous ethnoarchaeological practices in different parts of the region but also a significant contribution to the history of archaeological thought This perspective shall make the book of wider applicability and make possible to put up ethnoarchaeology as an immanent and important element of archaeological theory

The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E. Arnold, 2015-02-15 In The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community Dean E Arnold continues his unique approach to ceramic ethnoarchaeology tracing the history of potters in Ticul Yucatán and their production space over a period of more than four decades This follow up to his 2008 work Social Change and the Evolution of Ceramic Production and Distribution uses narrative to trace the changes in production personnel and their spatial organization through the changes in production organization in Ticul Although several kinds of production units developed households were the most persistent units of production in spite of massive social change and the reorientation of pottery production to the tourist market Entrepreneurial workshops government sponsored workshops and workshops attached to tourist hotels developed more recently but were short lived whereas pottery making households extended deep into the nineteenth century Through this continuity and change intermittent crafting multi crafting and potters increased management of economic risk also factored into the development of the production organization in Ticul Illustrated with more than 100 images of production units The Evolution of Ceramic Production Organization in a Maya Community is an important contribution to the understanding of ceramic production Scholars with interests in craft specialization craft production and demography as well as specialists in Mesoamerican archaeology anthropology history and economy will find this volume especially useful The Intangible Elements of Culture in Ethnoarchaeological Research Stefano Biagetti, Francesca Lugli, 2016-06-02 This volume focuses on the intangible elements of human cultures whose relevance in the study of archaeology has often been claimed but rarely practiced In this book the authors successfully show how the adoption of ethnoarchaeological perspectives on non material aspects of cultures can support the development of methodologies aimed at refining the archaeological interpretation of ancient items technologies rituals settlements and even landscape The volume includes a series of new approaches that can foster the dialogue between archaeology and anthropology in the domain of the intangible knowledge of rural and urban communities The role of ethnoarchaeology in the study of the intangible heritage is so far largely underexplored and there is a considerable lack of ethnoarchaeological studies explicitly focused on the less tangible evidence of present and past societies Fresh case studies will revitalize the theoretical debate around ethnoarchaeology and its applicability in the archaeological and heritage research in the new millennium Over the past decade intangible has become a key word in anthropological research and in heritage management Archaeological theories and methods regarding the explorations of the meaning and the significance of artifacts resources and settlement patterns are increasingly focusing on non material evidence Due to its peculiar characteristics ethnoarchaeology can effectively foster the development of the study of the intangible cultural heritage of living societies and highlight its relevance to the study of those of the past Explaining and Exploring Diversity in Agricultural Technology Annelou van Gijn, John Whittaker, Patricia C. Anderson, 2014-08-29 This volume is the outcome of collaborative European research among archaeologists archaeobotanists ethnographers historians and agronomists and frequently uses experiments in archaeology It aims to establish new common ground for integrating different approaches and for viewing agriculture from the standpoint of the human actors involved Each chapter provides an interdisciplinary overview of the skills used and the social context of the pursuit of agriculture highlighting examples of tools technologies and processes from land clearance to cereal processing and food preparation This is the second of three volumes in the EARTH monograph series The dynamics of non industrial agriculture 8 000 years of resilience and innovation which shows the great variety of agricultural practices in human terms in their social political cultural and legal contexts Handbook of Landscape Archaeology Bruno David, Julian Thomas, 2016-06-03 Over 80 archaeologists from four continents create a benchmark volume of the ideas and practices of landscape archaeology covering the theoretical and the practical the research and conservation and encasing the term in a global framework Handbook of Archaeological Theories R. Alexander Bentley, Herbert D. G. Maschner, Christopher Chippindale, 2007-11-09 This handbook gathers original authoritative articles from leading archaeologists to compile the latest thinking about archaeological theory The authors provide a comprehensive picture of the theoretical foundations by which archaeologists contextualize and analyze their archaeological data Student readers will also gain a sense of the immense power that theory has for building interpretations of the past while recognizing the wonderful archaeological traditions that created it An extensive bibliography is included This volume is the single most important reference for current information on contemporary archaeological theories The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology of the Contemporary World Paul Graves-Brown,Rodney Harrison,Angela Piccini,2013-10 This Handbook is the first comprehensive survey of a rapidly expanding sub field in archaeology the study of the present and recent past It seeks to explore the boundaries of this emerging area to develop a tool kit of concepts and methods which are applicable to this new sub field and to suggest important future trajectories for research Archaeologies of the Middle East Susan Pollock,Reinhard Bernbeck,2009-02-09 Archaeologies of the Middle East provides an innovative introduction to the archaeology of this fascinating region and a window on both its past and present Written by some of the top archaeologists of the Middle East scholars from diverse backgrounds with a wide range of interests and intellectual approaches Coverage spans 100 000 years from the Paleolithic to Hellenistic times Explores the connections between modern day politics and the social context of archaeological practice and various underutilized approaches to archaeological interpretation Designed for student use Handbook of Archaeological Methods Herbert D. G. Maschner,Christopher Chippindale,2005 The Handbook of Archaeological Methods comprises 37 articles by leading archaeologists on the key methods used by archaeologists in the field in analysis in theory building and in managing cultural resources The book is destined to become the key reference work for archaeologists and their advanced students on contemporary archaeological methods Space and Spatial Analysis in Archaeology University of Calgary. Archaeological Association. Conference,Elizabeth C. Robertson,2006 The archaeology of space and place is examined in this selection of papers from the 34th annual Chacmool Archaeological Conference Hot Pursuit Alysia Fischer,2008-01-01 Hot Pursuit is about glass blowing in antiquity and today It shows how using a variety of anthropological methods to answer an archaeological question yields an intriguing glimpse into the lives of glass blowers in antiquity The Oxford Handbook of Engineering and Technology in the Classical World John Peter Oleson,2008 Nearly every aspect of daily life in the Mediterranean world and Europe during the florescence of the Greek and Roman cultures is relevant to engineering and technology This text highlights the accomplishments of the ancient societies the research problems and stimulates further progress in the history of ancient technology Unmaking Waste Sarah Newman,2023-05-26 Explores the concept of waste from fresh historical cultural and geographical perspectives Garbage is often assumed to be an inevitable part and problem of human existence But when did people actually come to think of things as trash as becoming worthless over time or through use as having an end Unmaking Waste tackles these questions through a long term cross cultural approach Drawing on archaeological finds historical documents and ethnographic observations to examine Europe the United States and Central America from prehistory to the present Sarah Newman traces how different ideas about waste took shape in different times and places Newman examines what people consider to be waste and how they interact with it as well as what happens when different perceptions of trash come into conflict Conceptions of waste have shaped forms of reuse and renewal in ancient Mesoamerica early modern ideas of civility and forced religious conversion in New Spain and even the modern discipline of archaeology Newman argues that centuries of assumptions imposed on other places times and peoples need to be rethought This book is not only a broad reconsideration of waste it is also a call for new forms of archaeology that do not take garbage for granted Unmaking Waste reveals that waste is not and never has been an obvious or universal concept

Micromorphological Analysis of Activity Areas Sealed by Vesuvius' Avellino Eruption Tiziana Matarazzo, 2015-10-31 Buried under a meter of volcanic ash deposited by the eruption of Vesuvius the remarkable preservation of this Early Bronze Age village in Southern Italy is unmatched in Europe Here micromorphology is used to identify the type and range of human activities the function of features and buildings and the intensity of site occupation

Archaeometallurgy in Global Perspective Benjamin W. Roberts, Christopher P. Thornton, 2014-01-07 The study of ancient metals in their social and cultural contexts has been a topic of considerable interest in archaeology and ancient history for decades partly due to the modern dependence on technology and man made materials The formal study of Archaeometallurgy began in the 1970s 1980s and has seen a recent growth in techniques data and theoretical movements This comprehensive sourcebook on Archaeometallurgy provides an overview of earlier research as well as a review of modern techniques written in an approachable way Covering an extensive range of archaeological time periods and regions this volume will be a valuable resource for those studying archaeology worldwide It provides a clear straightforward look at the available methodologies including Smelting processes Slag analysis Technical Ceramics Archaeology of Mining and Field Survey Ethnoarchaeology Chemical Analysis and Provenance Studies Conservation Studies With chapters focused on most geographic regions of Archaeometallurgical inquiry researchers will find practical applications for metallurgical techniques in any area of their study Ben Roberts is a specialist in the early metallurgy and later prehistoric archaeology of Europe He was the Curator of the European Copper and Bronze Age collections at the British Museum between 2007 and 2012 and is now a Lecturer in Prehistoric Europe in the Department of Archaeology at the Durham University UK Chris Thornton is a specialist in the ancient metallurgy of the Middle East combining anthropological theory with archaeometrical analysis to understand the development and diffusion of metallurgical technologies throughout Eurasia He is currently a Consulting Scholar of the University of Pennsylvania Museum where he received his PhD in 2009 and the Lead Program Officer of research grants at the National Geographic Society
