OSHA regulations require that permanent aisles and passageways must be marked appropriately and in consistent manner plant-wide.

These color code recommendations are widely accepted and comply with any interpretation of OSHA or American National Standards Institute (ANSI) codes. This scheme isn't set by any specific law, so it can be modified to fit the needs of specific facilities. It is a useful starting point for most applications. If modified, post a color guide in a conspicuous location.

Line Width Requirements

To ensure maximum visibility, the required minimum width for facility aisle and floor marking lines is 2". Therefore, any width above that is considered acceptable by OSHA and ANSI.

Most typical applications use tape or painted lines with 2" - 4" widths. Widths above 6" tend to be much more cost prohibitive and impractical to apply.

Aisle Width Requirements

"Sufficient safe clearances" must be provided where mechanical equipment is used. The width required will vary depending upon how the aisle is utilized in the workplace. Aisles that see forklift and truck traffic will need to be wider than aisles for pedestrian traffic.

A good average aisle width is 36 inches. Storage rooms containing flammable and combustible liquids must have aisles of least 36 inches wide.

Additionally, for emergency exit access points, 28 inches is the minimum allowed width.
