Sara's Valentine

In a small town there was a girl named Sara. Sara loved Valentine's Day because it was a day filled with love and kindness. She always looked forward to sharing sweet cards and candies with her friends at school.

One day, Sara decided to make special Valentine's Day cards for everyone in her class. She used colorful paper, glitter, and stickers to make each card unique. Sara's mom helped her bake heart-shaped cookies to share with her friends too.

On Valentine's Day morning, Sara woke up with a big smile. She wore her favorite red dress and carefully packed the cards and cookies in her backpack. At school, the classroom was filled with excitement. The teacher had decorated the room with hearts and flowers.

Sara handed out her special cards to each friend, and they all exclaimed with joy "Thank you, Sara!" They shouted. Sara felt so happy to see her friends smiling. During the class party, they shared the heart-shaped cookies, and everyone enjoyed the sweet treats.

But the best part of the day was yet to come. In the afternoon, the teacher announced a surprise activity. Each student picked a name from a hat and became secret Valentine buddies. They would do something nice for their secret buddy.

Sara was thrilled when she found out that her secret buddy was Alex. She decided to draw a colorful picture and write a kind note for him. When Alex received Sara's surprise, he smiled and thanked her. Sara felt warm inside, knowing she made someone's day special.

As the school day ended, Lily walked home, feeling grateful for the love she shared and received on Valentine's Day. It wasn't just about cards and cookies; it was about making others happy and spreading kindness. Lily knew that love could be shared in many ways, and Valentine's Day was a wonderful reminder of that.

The Illustrated London News ,1863 Illustrated Sporting & Dramatic News ,1917 The New Poet Richard Danson Brown,1999-01-01 This gracefully written and well thought out study deals with a neglected collection of poems by

Spenser which was issued in 1591 at the height of his career While there has been a good deal written in recent years on two of the poems in the collection Mother Hubbard s Tale and Muiopotmos Brown innovatively addresses the collection in its entirety He urges us to see it as a planned whole with a consistent design on the reader he fully acknowledges and even brings out further the heterogeneity of the collection but he examines it nevertheless as a sustained reflection on the nature of poetry and the auspices for writing in a modern world distancing itself from the traditions of the immediate past The strength of this work lies both in the originality of its project and in the precision and enterprise of the close reading that informs its argument Interest in the concern of Spenser s poetry with the nature of poetry is in the current critical mainstream but here the attentiveness is both unusually focused and unusually sustained Brown garners more than would be expected from the translations in the Complaints while at the same time including striking and individual chapters on the better known Mother Hubbard s Tale and Muiopotmos he advances understanding of these extremely subtle texts and fully justifies his wider approach to the collection as a whole Arguing that Spenser s relationship to literary tradition is more complex than is often thought Brown suggests that Spenser was a self conscious innovator whose gradual move away from traditional poetics is exhibited by the different texts in the Complaints He further suggests that the Complaints are a poetics in practice which progress from traditional ideas of poetry to a new poetry that emerges through Spenser s transformation of traditional complaint
