What's a Critique and Why Does it Matter?

Critiques evaluate and analyze a wide variety of things (texts, images, performances, etc.) based on reasons or criteria. Sometimes, people equate the notion of "critique" to "criticism," which usually suggests a negative interpretation. These terms are easy to confuse, but I want to be clear that critique and criticize don't mean the same thing. A negative critique might be said to be "criticism" in the way we often understand the term "to criticize," but critiques can be positive too.

We're all familiar with one of the most basic forms of critique: reviews (film reviews, music reviews, art reviews, book reviews, etc.). Critiques in the form of reviews tend to have a fairly simple and particular point: whether or not something is "good" or "bad."

Academic critiques are similar to the reviews we see in popular sources in that critique writers are trying to make a particular point about whatever it is that they are critiquing. But there are some differences between the sorts of critiques we read in academic sources versus the ones we read in popular sources.

- The subjects of academic critiques tend to be other academic writings and they frequently appear in scholarly journals.
- Academic critiques frequently go further in making an argument beyond a simple assessment of the quality of a particular book, film, performance, or work of art. Academic critique writers will often compare and discuss several works that are similar to each other to make some larger point. In other words, instead of simply commenting on whether something was good or bad, academic critiques tend to explore issues and ideas in ways that are more complicated than merely "good" or "bad."

The Handbook Of Academic

Writing: A Fresh Approach Murray, Rowena, Moore, Sarah, 2006-10-01 Writing is one of the most demanding tasks that academics and researchers face In some disciplines we learn some of what we need to know to be productive successful writers but in other disciplines there is no training support or mentoring of any kind

Engaging Undergraduates in

Publishable Research: Best Practices Traci A. Giuliano, Jeanine L. M. Skorinko, Marianne Fallon, 2019-11-20 Although many articles and books have been written about conducting research with undergraduates there is a dearth of research on the process of publishing with undergraduates Thus in this research topic we assembled a collection of 43 articles from 98 researchers worldwide who are passionate about and have had success in publishing high quality peer reviewed journal articles with undergraduates The diverse articles represent a wide range of practices to help researchers publish with undergraduates including structuring the curriculum to promote undergraduate research and publication optimizing research experiences for undergraduates training students in implementing advanced techniques accessing special populations or conducting research in off campus settings addressing institutional and career challenges for faculty and increasing inclusion and diversity Each article provides a unique and diverse perspective that nevertheless resonates across contexts and situations We hope that the ideas models techniques and practices in these articles will motivate and inspire readers to begin continue or rethink how they engage undergraduates in publishable research we also hope to stimulate empirical and quantitative research on the effectiveness of these ideas models techniques and practices

Beyond the Mind Giuseppina Marsico, 2018-04-01 This book Beyond the Mind Cultural Dynamics of the Psyche is unusual in the content and in the format That's why it requires an unusual look It has to do with a man an intellectual journey and with uncountable travels across the world over the last two decades This man is Jaan Valsiner and here you will read of his restless effort of elaborating ideas while going in different places as invited keynote This book is mainly about his intellectual trajectory which touches several places and several and interconnected topics This book is about the minutes of his bigger and well organized works and also it is a collection of only apparently fragmented texts mainly keynote lectures unpublished or rejected papers where the readers will see the step by step elaboration over the years of new ideas theories models and even schemas which Jaan likes very much maybe especially as he claims basic inability to draw anything
