

“Douglas Coupland’s got the brand names, the speech habits, and the litter of . . . life nailed cold.”
—*San Francisco Chronicle

They are Microserfs—six code-crunching computer whizzes who spend upward of sixteen hours a day “coding” and eating “flat” foods (food which, like Kraft singles, can be passed underneath closed doors) as they fearfully scan company e-mail to learn whether the great Bill is going to “flame” one of them. But now there’s a chance to become innovators instead of cogs in the gargantuan Microsoft machine. The intrepid Microserfs are striking out on their own—living together in a shared digital flophouse as they desperately try to cultivate well-rounded lives and find love amid the dislocated, subhuman whirl and buzz of their computer-driven world.

“Vivid and lovely. There is a new world out there, and Coupland’s story grants young people their own reality, their own voice, and consequently, their own tradition.” —Booklist

“An accurate look at a thriving subculture.” —Boston Globe

“A hilarious, intimate look at the way high technology is transforming American life—for better and for worse.” —People

Douglas Coupland is the author of twelve novels, including Generation X and Girlfriend in a Coma, and several works of nonfiction, including Polaroids from the Dead. He lives and works in Vancouver, Canada. www.coupland.com
