Jackie Xiu Yan, Jun Pan, Honghua Wang, 2017-11-29 This book comprehensively examines the development of translator and interpreter training using bibliometric reviews of the state of the field and empirical studies on classroom practice It starts by introducing databases in bibliometric reviews and presents a detailed account of the reasons behind the project and its objectives as well as a description of the methods of constructing databases The introduction is followed by full scale review studies on various aspects of translator and interpreter training providing not only an overall picture of the research themes and methods but also valuable information on active authors institutions and countries in the subfields of translator training interpreter training and translator and interpreter training in general The book also compares publications from different subfields of research regions and journals to show the special features within this discipline Further it provides a series of empirical studies conducted by the authors covering a wide array of topics in translator and interpreter training with an emphasis on learner factors This collective volume with its unique perspective on bibliometric data and empirical studies highlights the latest development in the field of translator and interpreter training research The findings presented will help researchers trainers and practitioners to reflect on the important issues in the discipline and find possible new directions for future research Access 2016 For Dummies Laurie A.
