Mental Health Promotion in Schools Carmel Cefai, Paul Cooper, 2017-06-09. The narratives of the children and young people, school teachers and school leaders, parents and carers, policy makers and service managers and mental health workers and professionals presented in this book should provide an invaluable resource for all those involved in mental health promotion in school. The insights drawn from these direct field experiences may help to inform policy and good practice and serve as an inspiration to schools in their efforts to introduce and promote mental health for their communities. Most of the chapters present original research carried out in schools, services, universities and other contexts across different cultures. Through various qualitative studies carried out in different cultural contexts, Mental Health Promotion in Schools provides a platform for children, teachers, school leaders, parents, professionals, policy makers and teacher educators to express their views on what works and does not work in mental health promotion in school. In our continued quest for evidence based research, we may tend to underestimate the value and significance of capturing the views and experiences of those most directly involved in mental health promotion, such as children and young people, school teachers and parents, carers in seeking to enhance policy and practice in the area. This book should be of particular interest to those involved in mental health promotion in school at practice, training and research levels and we are sure that among these chapters they will discover many new and stimulating insights into the promotion of mental health in such complex systems as schools. This is a timely book since mental health difficulties among children and young people are on the increase across the world. The editors, Carmel Cefai and Paul Cooper, are passionate about the crucial role to be played by schools in creating safe spaces in which to learn, develop and socialise. They have spent many years in the development of creative initiatives for the promotion of emotional health and well being amongst young people. The editors bring an international perspective to the issue of mental health and youth and show how important it is to collaborate and share expertise and knowledge. Cefai and Cooper have assembled an impressive range of authors to share their knowledge and to show how initiatives can be adapted to a range of cultural contexts. Helen Cowie, Professor, Faculty of Health and Medical Sciences, University of Surrey, UK.

Children's Social and Emotional Wellbeing in Schools Debbie Watson, 2012. This book is a challenge to the concept of wellbeing as applied to children, suggesting that it should be understood at the level of the child rather than a list of things that are needed in order to live well.

Wellbeing and Schooling Ros McLellan, Carole Faucher, Venka Simovska, 2022-05-05. Collectively the research presented in this book revisits challenges and rearticulates taken for granted wellbeing conceptualisations, policies and intervention frameworks as critical discussion of wellbeing in relation to children and young people from a variety of socio cultural, political and economic settings is still relatively sparse The contributions work synergistically to generate a sophisticated understanding of children's wellbeing while introducing fresh and context sensitive approaches Pre conceived and taken for granted notions of wellbeing are problematised through four sections in i Re examining conceptualisations of wellbeing in educational research and policy ii Focusing on School environments schooling and wellbeing iii Examining the significance of cultural contexts and iv Amplifying children's voices The objective is to help generate new ways of researching and thinking about wellbeing and schooling that transcend monocultural monodisciplinary and monomethodological strategies The book aims to stimulate further theoretical and empirical research as well as development of effective policies and school interventions which nuance rather than reduce complexity of both education and wellbeing
