Industrial Concentration and Economic Power in Pakistan Lawrence J. White, 2015-03-08 Although observers of the Pakistani economy are well aware that a small number of family groups popularly called the twenty two families dominates the industrial structure of the country the actual effects of this concentration of economic power on income distribution and on other areas of widespread social and political concern are less well understood In this important work Lawrence J White uses the concepts of industrial organization analysis to achieve an overall view of the problems stemming from the marked industrial concentration in Pakistan After discussing the economic effects of industrial concentration as they apply generally to less developed countries Professor White reviews the Pakistani experience estimating the overall concentration of power that exists in manufacturing banking and insurance Following an estimate of the extent of concentration in individual markets he examines the origins of this concentration of power and analyzes its economic and noneconomic effects in Pakistan The author concludes with a review of the policies that Pakistan has pursued in dealing with industrial concentration and suggests new courses of action for the future Originally published in 1974 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Politics of Equity Finance in Emerging Markets Kathryn C. Lavelle, 2004-10-14 Emerging market stock issuance relative to GDP rose in the late twentieth century to levels that roughly matched that of advanced industrial markets Nonetheless the connection between owning shares of emerging market stock and the ability to influence the management of these firms remains fundamentally different from the analogous institutional connection that has evolved in industrial markets The reasons for the differences in emerging markets are both historical and political in nature That is local equity markets have had the objective of providing for some degree of local ownership and control of large economic entities since the late nineteenth century However local markets have operated under different global political structures since that time ranging from imperialism to world wars to sovereign developmental states to neo liberal states Shares issued under these different structures have been reconfigured over time resulting in a lack of convergence along either the Anglo American or Continental models of corporate governance The author uses a political science paradigm to explain the growth of emerging equity markets She departs from conventional economic explanations and examines politics at the micro level of large issues of emerging market stock The second half of the book presents case studies dealing with emerging market countries in Latin America Asia Russia and Eastern Europe Africa and the Middle East The case studies connect the regional state and firm levels to detail the multiple ownership and control arrangements and to dispel the notion that mere quantitative growth of these markets will lead to a convergence in financial institutional structures along the lines of the industrial core of the world economy
