Developmental Science Marc H. Bornstein, Michael E. Lamb, 2015-07-24 Developmental Science An Advanced Textbook is the most complete and cutting edge introduction to the field available today Since its initial publication the key purpose of the text has been to furnish inclusive developmental perspectives on all substantive areas in psychology neuroscience perception cognition language emotion and social interaction This edition is no exception as it continues to underscore the dynamic and exciting status of contemporary developmental science In this Seventh Edition Marc H Bornstein and Michael E Lamb once again invite international experts to prepare original comprehensive and topical treatments of the major areas of developmental science which are masterfully woven into a single coherent volume Some chapters in this edition are new and those carried forward from the sixth edition have been extensively revised This volume represents faithfully the current status of scholarly efforts in all aspects of developmental science Ideal for advanced undergraduate and introductory graduate courses the text is accompanied by a website with supplementary material for students and instructors including chapter outlines topics to think about before reading glossaries and suggested readings      Environmental Science Slides

Nebel, 1996-02      Developing an Inclusive Environment Karen R. Feichtel, 1997      Loving Arms Karen Schneider, 2014-07-15 Loving Arms examines the war related writings of five British women whose works explore the connections among gender war and story telling While not the first study to relate the subjects of gender and war it is the first within a growing body of criticism to focus specifically on British culture during and after World War II Evoking the famous St Crispin s Day speech from Henry V and then her own father s account of being moved to tears on V J Day because he had been too young to fight Karen Schneider posits that the war story has a far reaching potency She admits perhaps for all of us that such stories had powerfully shaped my consciousness in ways I could not completely resist How a story is narrated and by whom are matters of no small importance As widely defined and accepted war stories are men s stories If we are to hear an other story of war then we must listen to the stories women tell Many of the war stories written by women insist that war is not the condition of men but rather the condition of humanity beginning with relations between the sexes For the five women whose work is examined in Loving Arms Stevie Smith Katharine Burdekin Virginia Woolf Elizabeth Bowen and Doris Lessing this latter point was particularly relevant Their positions as women within a patriarchal militarist culture that was externally threatened by an overtly fascist one led to an acute ambivalence says Schneider Though all five women perceived the war from substantially different perspectives each in her own way exposed and critiqued the seductive power of war and war stories with their densely interwoven tropes of masculinity and nationalism Yet these writers conflicting impulses of loyalty to England and resistance to the war betray their ambivalence Loving Arms will interest students of twentieth century British literature and culture gender studies and narratology Even today we maintain an unabated love affair with the war story But unless we listen to what the women had to say fifty years ago we are doomed to hear only the same old story

Politics and the Bomb Sara Z. Kutchesfahani, 2013-09-05 Epistemic communities represent networks of knowledge based experts that help articulate cause and effect relationships of complex problems define the self interests of a state or formulate specific policies for state decision makers However the role of these scientists and knowledgeable professionals in nuclear policy formulation is poorly understood Thoroughly documented and making excellent use of source material Politics and the Bomb provides refreshingly new empirical evidence and theoretical analysis of the importance of scientists and experts behind the creation of new non proliferation agreements Simply not another book on nuclear proliferation Sara Z Kutchesfahani explores the differences in the emergence composition and influence mechanisms of the epistemic communities behind the nuclear non proliferation policy formulation in Brazilian Argentine Agency for Accounting and Control of Nuclear Materials ABACC and the Nunn Lugar Cooperative Threat Reduction CTR Program In doing so she eloquently demonstrates how the role of these non proliferation experts lead to the possibility of creating more effective non proliferation policies in the future and hints at the need to sustain non proliferation epistemic communities in all countries that can provide input to the global proliferation problem until it is solved

Wendy Hunter explores civil military relations in Brazil following the transition to civilian leadership in 1985. She documents a marked and surprising decline in the political power of the armed forces even as they have remained involved in national policy making. To account for the success of civilian politicians, Hunter invokes rational choice theory in arguing that politicians will contest even powerful forces in order to gain widespread electoral support. Many observers expected Brazil's fledgling democracy to remain under the firm direction of the military which had tightly controlled the transition from authoritarian to civilian rule. Hunter carefully refutes this conventional wisdom by demonstrating the ability of even a weak democratic regime to expand its autonomy relative to a once powerful military thanks to the electoral incentives that motivate civilian politicians. Based on interviews with key participants and on extensive archival research, Hunter's analysis of developments in Brazil suggests a more optimistic view of the future of civilian democratic rule in Latin America. State, 1995
