Junfeng Zhao, Defeng Li, Riccardo Moratto, 2022-05-06 This book features a collection of articles on comparative literature from a translational perspective with a special reference to translation of contemporary Chinese literature. Issues of translation dissemination and reception of translated literature in the context of world literature are the foci of the book. Given its scope, the book appeals particularly to teachers and students of Chinese literature translation and Sinology.

Between Birth and Death Michelle T. King, 2014-01-08 Female infanticide is a social practice often closely associated with Chinese culture. Journalists, social scientists, and historians alike emphasize that it is a result of the persistence of son preference from China's ancient past to its modern present. Yet how is it that the killing of newborn daughters has come to be so intimately associated with Chinese culture? Between Birth and Death locates a significant historical shift in the representation of female infanticide during the nineteenth century. It was during these years that the practice transformed from a moral and deeply local issue affecting communities into an emblematic cultural marker of a backwards Chinese civilization requiring the scientific, religious, and political attention of the West. Using a wide array of Chinese, French, and English primary sources, the book takes readers on an unusual historical journey, presenting the varied perspectives of those concerned with the fate of an unwanted Chinese daughter: a late imperial Chinese mother in the immediate moments following birth; a male Chinese philanthropist dedicated to rectifying moral behavior in his community; Western Sinological experts preoccupied with determining the comparative prevalence of the practice; Catholic missionaries and schoolchildren intent on saving the souls of heathen Chinese children; and turn-of-the-century reformers grappling with the problem as a challenge for an emerging nation.

Secondhand China Carles Prado-Fonts, 2022-06-15 This transcultural study of cultural production brings to light the ways Spanish literature imagined China by relying on English and French language sources. Carles Prado-Fonts examines how the simultaneous dependence on and obscuring of translation in these cross-cultural representations created the illusion of a homogeneous West. He argues that Orientalism became an instrument of hegemony not only between the West and the rest but also within the West itself, where Spanish writers used representations of China to connect themselves to Europe, hone a national voice, or forward ideas of political and cultural modernity. Uncovering an eclectic and surprising archive, Prado-Fonts draws on diverse cultural artifacts from popular literature, journalism, and early cinema to offer a rich account of how China was seen across the West between 1880 and 1930. Enrique Gaspar, Luis de Oteyza, Vicente Blasco Ibáñez, and lesser-known authors writing in Spanish and Catalan put themselves in dialogue with Leo Tolstoy, John Dewey, W. Somerset Maugham, Bertrand Russell, Pearl Buck, and André Malraux, as well as stereotypical figures from popular culture like Fu Manchu and Charlie Chan. Throughout, Prado-Fonts exposes translation as a technology of cultural hegemony and China as an appealing object for representation. A timely contribution to our understanding of how we create and consume knowledge about the world Secondhand China is essential reading for scholars and students of Orientalism postcolonial studies translation studies comparative literature and cultural studies
