Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and blood pressure (BP) of sedentary, middle-aged men. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The subjects were 15 sedentary, middle-aged men (mean age 45.2 ± 3.1 years, range 35-55 years). The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group (n = 7) and a training group (n = 8). The control group performed no exercise, while the training group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of 30 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic exercise. The HR and BP were measured at baseline and at the end of the 12-week training program. The results showed that the training group had a significant decrease in HR and BP compared to the control group. The HR decreased from 72.5 ± 5.2 beats per minute (bpm) at baseline to 68.5 ± 4.1 bpm at the end of the 12-week training program. The BP decreased from 125.5 ± 8.5 mmHg at baseline to 118.5 ± 6.5 mmHg at the end of the 12-week training program. The control group showed no significant change in HR and BP. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively reduce HR and BP in sedentary, middle-aged men.
