Expressive Processing Noah Wardrip-Fruin, 2012-02-10 From the complex city planning game SimCity to the virtual therapist Eliza how computational processes open possibilities for understanding and creating digital media What matters in understanding digital media Is looking at the external appearance and audience experience of software enough or should we look further In Expressive Processing Noah Wardrip Fruin argues that understanding what goes on beneath the surface the computational processes that make digital media function is essential Wardrip Fruin looks at expressive processing by examining specific works of digital media ranging from the simulated therapist Eliza to the complex city planning game SimCity Digital media he contends offer particularly intelligible examples of things we need to understand about software in general if we understand for instance the capabilities and histories of artificial intelligence techniques in the context of a computer game we can use that understanding to judge the use of similar techniques in such higher stakes social contexts as surveillance

Engagement Design Nelson Zagalo, 2020-03-17 Interactive media designers have been discussing modes to optimize interaction design beyond mere usability With the arrival of Emotional Design followed by the success of the User Experience UX approaches the discussion continued and augmented Experience has become a complex buzzword which is more about the subject s experience than the product and this is why it s difficult or even impossible to define it in a concise manner We propose to move the discussion from Experience towards Engagement to emphasize the design of the relationship between artefacts contexts and users Engagement asks for a more concrete type of experience with specific needs motives skills and competences which can be more clearly worked into the design of artefacts Engagement also differs from other concepts e g fun enjoyment happiness or well being and is open enough to grant freedom to designers in creating their personal world views To push this new approach we offer in this book a full model for the design of engagement in interactive media still believing it can be applied beyond that The model is arranged around what we call the three engagement streams Progression Expression and Relation
