Writing for the Wired World Shel Holtz, 1999 The Politics of Writing Studies Robert Samuels, 2017-09-07 A friendly critique of the field The Politics of Writing Studies examines a set of recent pivotal texts in composition to show how writing scholarship in an effort to improve disciplinary prestige and garner institutional resources inadvertently reproduces structures of inequality within American higher education Not only does this enable the exploitation of contingent faculty but it also puts writing studies a field that inherently challenges many institutional hierarchies in a debased institutional position and at odds with itself Instead of aligning with the dominant paradigm of research universities where research is privileged over teaching theory over practice the sciences over the humanities and graduate education over undergraduate writing studies should conceive itself in terms more often associated with labor By identifying more profoundly as workers as a collective in solidarity with contingent faculty writing professionals can achieve solutions to the material problems that the field in its best moments wants to address Ultimately the change compositionists want to see in the university will not come from high theory or the social science research agenda it must come from below Offering new insight into a complex issue
