Fitbit Ultra Product Manual:

Interfaces and Us Zachary Kaiser, 2023-01-12 We're all familiar with smart TVs making suggestions on our future watching real world exercise data being transferred into stats and infographics on our workout apps and turning up our home heating before we start our commute but how does this world of technological interfaces affect our actions and perceptions of self? When society relies on computer models and their interfaces to explain and predict everything from love to geopolitical conflicts our own behaviour and choices are artificially changed. Zachary Kaiser explores the harmful social consequences of this idea balanced against speed and ease for the user and how design practice and education can respond positively. Concepts of freedom vs convenience. Smart objects and manipulation. Real world information transformed into data. Technology's decisions made on our behalf. EHealth - For Continuity of Care C. Lovis, B. Séroussi, A. Hasman, 2014-09-30 Information technology and the information sciences have been part of our lives for some time now. They have revolutionized the healthcare system, changing the whole health landscape as well as health culture. New devices, sources of data and roles for all those involved in healthcare are being developed as a result. This book presents the proceedings of the 25th European Medical Informatics Conference held in Istanbul, Turkey, in August-September 2014. The conference aims to present the most recent developments in biomedical informatics. The book is divided into 15 sections which include decision support systems and clinical practice guidelines, improved healthcare through informatics, data analysis, mobile health technology and system evaluation, and text mining. The final two sections present posters from the conference. The book will be of interest to all those in the healthcare sector, researchers and practitioners alike who develop, evaluate or work with information technology.

Mobile e-Health Hannah R. Marston, Shannon Freeman, Charles Musselwhite, 2017-12-01 This multi-disciplinary collection of essays captures discussion, thinking and research surrounding the recent surge of interest in how technology can help us as we age. A wide range of topics are covered from investigations in the use of technology to improve health and well-being to examinations of digital gaming, mobile health apps and the quantified self in relation to an ageing population. From multi-disciplinary perspectives, this collection highlights the role of a more social approach to technology. As such, a variety of social research methods are used throughout the chapters. The benefits and issues with different approaches are highlighted both in terms of further research but also so the reader can judge the value of the research for themselves. This collection brings together the latest thinking and cutting-edge contemporary research from leading thinkers and academics in the field of human-computer interaction, health and gerontology. In taking a social approach, it highlights how technological practices fit within wider gerontological, political and cultural perspectives. It therefore has potential to influence those working in human-computer interaction, digital humanities, sociology, psychology and gerontology. It can help change the practice of people working in the health and social care field in computer and product design and in the digital and creative industries. Human Centric Technology and Service in Smart Space James J. (Jong Hyuk) Park, Qun Jin, Martin

Sang-soo Yeo,Bin Hu,2012-07-26 The theme of HumanCom is focused on the various aspects of human centric computing for advances in computer science and its applications and provides an opportunity for academic and industry professionals to discuss the latest issues and progress in the area of human centric computing In addition the conference will publish high quality papers which are closely related to the various theories and practical applications in human centric computing Furthermore we expect that the conference and its publications will be a trigger for further related research and technology improvements in this important subject
