Single Season Sitcoms of the 1990s Bob Leszczak,2018-09-14 During the Must See TV 1990s Americans enjoyed such immensely popular sitcoms as Friends Seinfeld Home Improvement and The Drew Carey Show Shows that did not make the ratings cut numbered in the hundreds the emergence of new networks and cable channels airing original programming resulted in a vast increase in short lived sitcoms over the previous decade Some of these flops were actually quite good and deserved a better fate The author revisits them along with the dramedies of the day with detailed entries providing production and broadcast information along with critical analyses and recollections by cast and crew members A subsection highlights sitcoms that returned for an abbreviated second season Dozens of cast and crew photographs are included

Seinfeld, Master of Its Domain David Lavery,Sara Lewis Dunne,2010-06-15 After a slow and inauspicious beginning Seinfeld broke through to become one of the most commercially successful sitcoms in the history of television This fascinating book includes classic articles on the show by Geoffrey O'Brien and Bill Wyman first published in the New York Review of Books and Salon.com respectively and a selection of new and revised essays by some of the top television scholars in the US looking at issues as wide ranging as Seinfeld's Jewishness alleged nihilism food obsession and long running syndication The book also includes a comprehensive episode guide and Betty Lee's lexicon of Seinfeld language

The Black Image in the White Mind Robert M. Entman,Andrew Rojecki,2024-05-31 Living in a segregated society white Americans learn about African Americans not through personal relationships but through the images the media show them The Black Image in the White Mind offers the most comprehensive look at the intricate racial patterns in the mass media and how they shape the ambivalent attitudes of Whites toward Blacks Using the media and especially television as barometers of race relations Robert Entman and Andrew Rojecki explore but then go beyond the treatment of African Americans on network and local news to incisively uncover the messages sent about race by the entertainment industry from prime time dramas and sitcoms to commercials and Hollywood movies While the authors find very little in the media that intentionally promotes racism they find even less that advances racial harmony They reveal instead a subtle pattern of images that while making room for Blacks implies a racial hierarchy with Whites on top and promotes a sense of difference and conflict Commercials for example feature plenty of Black characters But unlike Whites they rarely speak to or touch one another In prime time the few Blacks who escape sitcom buffoonery rarely enjoy informal friendly contact with White colleagues perhaps reinforcing social distance in real life Entman and Rojecki interweave such astute observations with candid interviews of White Americans that make clear how these images of racial difference insinuate themselves into Whites thinking Despite its disturbing readings of television and film the book's cogent analyses and proposed policy guidelines offer hope that America's powerful mediated racial separation can be successfully bridged Entman and Rojecki look at how television news focuses on black poverty and crime out of proportion to the material reality of black lives how black experts are only interviewed for black themed issues and how black politics are distorted in the news and conclude that while there are more images of African Americans on television now than there were years ago these images often don't reflect a commitment to racial comity or community building between the races Thoroughly researched and convincingly argued Publishers Weekly Drawing on their own research and that of a wide array of other scholars Entman and Rojecki present a great deal of provocative data showing a general tendency to devalue blacks or force them into stock categories Ben Yagoda New Leader Winner of the Frank Luther Mott Award for best book in Mass Communication and the Robert E Lane Award for best book in political psychology
