

Adaptology: Mechanisms which help an organism to deal with the environment and its changes.

Chapters 10-12: Stress and the Endocrine System

1. How exactly do stress hormones function for their small size and so they can be easily secreted into the blood? Explain why stress hormones have evolved without a cell membrane coat. The reason is that: stress hormones are secreted into the blood stream and travel through the circulatory system to various cells. A large coat would impede their movement and prevent them from reaching their target cells. Explain the difference: steroid hormones can cross cell membranes easily while protein hormones are restricted to receptors on the surface of the target cell. It is the importance of having receptors on the target cell and not the target cell itself for steroid hormones.
2. How do hormones of the endocrine system function against the resistance of the cell and its receptors? What is competitive binding and how does it work? Competitive binding is the process by which a hormone competes with other molecules for binding sites on a receptor.
3. Study the various endocrine glands in your text. Describe the different types of endocrine glands.
 - endocrine glands secrete hormones directly into the bloodstream.
 - exocrine glands secrete hormones through ducts into the body cavity or onto the surface of the body.
4. In all vertebrates, which cells are known to be steroid and also play a role in metabolism? steroid cells are found in the adrenal cortex and the gonads. They produce steroid hormones which are secreted into the bloodstream. They have different receptors and also play a role in metabolism and regulation of the immune system.
5. Which two groups of steroid hormones are secreted by the adrenal cortex?
6. In steroid hormone synthesis, cholesterol and progesterone are the starting materials. How are these hormones secreted and what are they? cholesterol is secreted by the adrenal cortex and progesterone is secreted by the ovaries. They are secreted into the bloodstream and travel to the target cells.
7. How do steroid hormones affect the target cells? They bind to receptors on the surface of the target cells and activate the cell's response.
8. Which steroid hormone is secreted by the adrenal cortex and is secreted by the ovaries?
