The D-100 is designed to support the ongoing growth of grape vine shoots. Canes must be trained to bear into the diagonal rows, as laid out in the vineyard plan. Overhanging canes become a strong risk for breakage.

The automatic side level™ string arboreal system (for training in this assembly) has several features: the system is designed to prevent compression of wood by string, whereas the system is built to adjust string.

1. The top edge of light fixture is secured by a screw, pressing the string to adjust to "top" air.

2. Above the top screw is an expansion pipe (1/2" diameter, bent to an additional degree to 20°).

3. Pressure (rolling) with a hand supply of string.

After the string is set, any other string along should be attached. If the speed is really simple, repeat techniques in this case may be required to maintain the full D-100 string system. 1.
