Ending the Scandal of Complacency Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Transport Committee, 2008

Although road accident deaths have halved between 1958 and 2007 whilst the number of licensed motor vehicles and vehicle mileage covered increased by 400 per cent the current rate of 3 000 deaths and 250 000 injuries is still an unacceptably high level Road accidents are the largest single cause of death for people between the ages of 5 and 35 in Britain and road accidents cost our economy some 18 billion each year The number of deaths and injuries on roads far outweighs the deaths and injuries in other transport modes and should be viewed as a major public health problem The Government should establish a British Road Safety Survey to track overall casualty and safety trends and review current methods for recording road traffic injuries The Committee recommends a systems approach to road safety ensuring the vehicle the road infrastructure regulations and driver training are designed to similar safety and performance standards Other recommendations include more 20 mph speed limits a more proactive approach to determining the safety benefits of new vehicle technologies action on young drivers who represent a disproportionate risk to road users and vulnerable users motorcyclists elderly and child pedestrians and cyclists horse riders a higher priority given to enforcement of drink drive and drug drive offences The Committee recommends the establishment of an independent Road Safety Commission with powers to work across the whole of government ensuring that a high priority and adequate resources are given to road safety and that all government departments and agencies give active support The Government should also establish a road accident investigation branch like those in aviation rail and marine Crash prevention and protection challenges for all road users
