What is Mental Retardation? Harvey N. Switzky, Stephen Greenspan, 2006 What is Mental Retardation is a rare peek into the divergent and at times contentious points of view among the world's leading researchers on what the condition of mental retardation is and how it should be defined measured and implemented in the 21st century This candid and insightful collection of 21 essays features expert opinion on issues ranging from whether mental retardation really is a slowing of mental development and what the disability should be called to how cultural norms affect the definition of the condition worldwide and lessons learned from the Atkins v Virginia case The definitions of mental retardation published from 1921 2002 by the American Association on Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities provide the backdrop for this powerful discussion expanded edition of the handbook's first edition this is an essential guide to some of the best programs for helping children and teens. Each chapter begins with an explanatory section that discusses the theoretical and empirical underpinnings of the programs. The treatment manual follows leading readers through sessions with specific details about conducting the treatment that have been refined and improved through extensive testing and research. Organized into three sections: the major clinical disorders, social problems confronting children and teens, and preventive interventions, the Handbook brings together some of the most esteemed researcher-practitioners in the child and adolescent field. The book presents an impressive variety of innovative treatment programs and techniques, including the SiHLE program intended to prevent problems confronting children and teens and preventive interventions. Sandra Lambertus, 2004-01-01. What does the media coverage of a crisis situation reveal about the nature of dominant minority relations locally, regionally, and nationally? Sandra Lambertus asks this question of the media coverage of the largest RCMP operation in Canadian history: the 1995 Gustafsen Lake Native Indian standoff. Drawing from extensive newspaper, television, and radio news products, legal and law enforcement documents, ethnographic interviews with 26 journalists, as well as RCMP and Native leaders, Lambertus examines the construction and national dissemination of vilifying stereotyped portrayals of Native people. The ethnographic component pushes the standard of media analysis, bringing to light previously unconsidered aspects of media representations of minorities, media and law enforcement processes, frameworks of the news makers, face presentation strategies, information control, and exchange relations in news gathering. The investigation shows how the values and perspectives of local communities, media, and law enforcement became overshadowed by outsiders during the course of the event, and the serious effects of the media coverage on specific audiences and ultimately Canadian society The study culminates with an assessment of the structural elements that contributed to the damaging media portrayals media bias competition cooperation empowerment and cultural misperceptions Wartime Images Peacetime Wounds opens new avenues for studies of minorities in the news and for the study of news media in general Focus On: 100 Most Popular Station Wagons Wikipedia contributors,
