Marking Matric Vijay Reddy, 2006. The past ten years in South Africa has seen many changes in education: the creation of a single department of education, common examinations for all learners in public schools in the country, a new outcomes-based education curriculum which was introduced to learners in the general education and training phase since 1998, and will be introduced to the further education and training phase from 2006. To evaluate the success of these changes, South African researchers still use the indicator of student achievement. The matriculation examination is the visible, high-profile and public performance indicator. Every year, parents, learners, teachers researchers government officials policymakers and the general public get involved in the debate around the matric examination with the most frequently asked questions being Did the pass rate go up Are standards dropping Are the results real or have they been manipulated How is our education system doing Are we meeting the development goals What should the matriculation examination of the future look like participants from government national and provincial Oswaal JEE

Building a Positive Math Identity Liesl McConchie,2025-09-01 When brain science meets math success Emotions drive learning This is an essential component of understanding how a student s math identity is closely connected to their math success How a student sees themselves in relation to math is dynamically constructed in their brain and is constantly changing Every learner deserves to exist in harmony with mathematics This book shows you how to make that mantra a reality for all students Liesl McConchie offers an exciting new perspective on math identity through her extensive research on how the brain learns Liesl walks readers through cognitive neuroscience in a humorous and friendly way using metaphors and everyday stories to explain how emotions and cognition interact She offers engaging and simple brain based strategies and activities to implement in the classroom In Building a Positive Math Identity A Brain Science Approach Liesl Translates complex brain science principles for educators in an accessible and engaging way Provides practical exercises and lessons that you can use in classroom right away Shares real world stories that provide deeper insight into how math identity is shaped over the years Offers activities to help teachers gain insight into the math identities of our students Guides teachers to explore our own math identity and the impact it can have on our students Most important the book pushes back on the prevailing message about math identity that tends to focus on student efficacy alone This approach puts the burden on the individual which can lead to additional oppression of those who have been most marginalized in math Here s our opportunity as educators to reexamine what it means to have a positive math identity and to learn to use brain based tools to build on a positive math identity for our students from the earliest ages     Teaching and Learning Secondary School Mathematics Ann Kajander,Jennifer Holm,Egan J Chernoff,2018-10-24 This volume brings together recent research and commentary in secondary school mathematics from a breadth of contemporary Canadian and International researchers and educators It is both representative of mathematics education generally as well as unique to the particular geography and culture of Canada The chapters address topics of broad applicability such as technology in learning mathematics recent interest in social justice contexts in the learning of mathematics as well as Indigenous education The voices of classroom practitioners the group ultimately responsible for implementing this new vision of mathematics teaching and learning are not forgotten Each section includes a chapter written by a classroom teacher making this volume unique in its approach We have much to learn from one another and this volume takes the stance that the development of a united vision supported by both research and professional dialog provides the first step
