Dynamic Games and Applications in Economics Tamer Başar,2012-12-06 This volume contains eleven articles which deal with different aspects of dynamic and differential game theory and its applications in economic modeling and decision making. All but one of these were presented as invited papers in special sessions I organized at the 7th Annual Conference on Economic Dynamics and Control in London, England, during the period June 26-28, 1985. The first article, which comprises Chapter 1, provides a general introduction to the topic of dynamic and differential game theory, discusses various noncooperative equilibrium solution concepts including Nash, Stackelberg, and Consistent Conjectural Variations equilibria, and a number of issues such as feedback and time consistency. The second chapter deals with the role of information in Nash equilibria and the role of leadership in Stackelberg problems. A special type of a Stackelberg problem is the one in which one dominant player (leader) acquires dynamic information involving the actions of the others (followers) and constructs policies, so-called incentives, which enforce a certain type of behavior on the followers. Chapter 3 deals with such a class of problems and presents some new theoretical results on the existence of affine incentive policies. The topic of Chapter 4 is the computation of equilibria in discounted stochastic dynamic games. Here, for problems with finite state and decision spaces, existing algorithms are reviewed with a comparative study of their speeds of convergence, and a new algorithm for the computation of nonzero-sum game equilibria is presented.

Management of Multimedia Networks and Services Jordi Dalmau Royo, Go Hasegawa, 2005-10-18. We are delighted to present the proceedings of the 8th IFIP IEEE International Conference on Management of Multimedia Networks and Services (MMNS 2005). The MMNS 2005 conference was held in Barcelona, Spain, on October 24-26, 2005. As in previous years, the conference brought together an international audience of researchers and scientists from industry and academia who are researching and developing state-of-the-art management systems while creating a public venue for results dissemination and intellectual collaboration. This year marked a challenging chapter in the advancement of management systems for the wider management research community with the growing complexities of the so-called multimedia over Internet, the proliferation of alternative wireless networks (WLL, WiFi, and WiMAX) and 3G mobile services, intelligent and high-speed networks, scalable multimedia services, and the convergence of computing and communications for data, voice, and video delivery. Contributions from the research community met this challenge with 65 paper submissions; 33 high-quality papers were subsequently selected to form the MMNS 2005 technical program. The diverse topics in this year's program included wireless networking technologies, wireless network applications, quality of services, multimedia Web applications, overlay network management, and bandwidth management.
